HIS HOLINESS VAZGEN I

COMMEMORATING THE AUSPICIOUS OCCASION OF THE TWENTY-EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ELECTION AND ...CONSECRATION OF THE SUPREME PATRIARCH AND... CATHOLICOS OF ALL ARMENIANS

HIS HOLINESS VAZGEN I

HIS GRACE
BISHOP AGHAN BALIOZIAN

His Grace Bishop Aghan Baliozian, Primate of the Diocese of Australia and New Zealand, who was consecrated a Bishop in the Cathedral of the Holy See in Sourb Etchmiadzin on 14th February, 1982, was born in Aleppo, Syria, in 1946 and received his primary education in this city.

In 1961 he entered the Jerusalem "Jarankavoratz" Theological Seminary, finishing succesfully his studies in 1968 after which, in the same year, he was consecrated as "Gousagron Kahana" (Celebrate Priest) and "APEGHA" by His Beatitude Patriarch Yegishe Derderian.

With the intermediary of our Vehapar Hayr, Vazken I, Supreme Patriarch and Catholicos of All Armenians, he was accepted and entered the Yerevan State University where Aghan Apegha studied in the Armenian language, Armenian Literature and History, from 1971-1974.

On the 4th November, 1971, in the St. Mesrop Mashtotz Church in Oshakan, Armenia, the late Archbishop Haikazoun Abrahamian bestowed upon him the rank of Vardapiet (Doctor of Theology). In recognition of his dignified position and conscientious services Patriarch Yeghishe Derderian gave permission to Aghan Vardapiet, on the 20th January, 1972, to wear the "Lantchakhatch" and the embroidered "philon" (mantle). During the educational years 1968-1975 Aghan Vardapiet taught in the centuries-old Seminaries in Jerusalem and Etchmiadzin, instructing on Classical Armenian, religion, Church rites, interpretation of the OLD and NEW TESTAMENTS, Christianity and the life of the Saints.

Aghan Vardapiet also filled the position of assistant Dean of the Jerusalem "Jarankauoratz" Theological Seminary, taking on as well the responsibilities of the Dean's duties. He was also the Principal of the Gulbenkian Library in Jerusalem. In November, 1975, when Aghan Hayr Sourb came to Australia, he was appointed Vicar General for the Diocese of Australia and New Zealand. Soon after, on 27th June, 1976, Hayr Sourb was promoted to "Tzairagouin" Vardapiet by the then Primate, His Grace Bishop Karekin Kazanjian, in the Armenian Church of Holy Resurrection, Chatswood, N.S.W.

On the 2nd of May, 1981, Hayr Sourb was elected LOCUM TENENS and after the short period of six months His Holiness Vazken I, Supreme Patriarch and Catholicos of All Armenians, appointed him as Primate of the same Diocese.

Consequently the Very Rev. Aghan Baliozian, was consecrated a Bishop by His Holiness in the Cathedral of the Holy See in Etchmiadzin on 14th February, 1982.

His Grace Bishop Aghan Baliozian has now to carry a very heavy burden on his young shoulders, but no doubt His Grace with his spiritual and intellectual abilities will conquer all difficulties and devote his strength to the service of our Church and the Armenian communities all over Australia and New Zealand.

FOREWORD

The Hon. John Spender, Q.C., M.P.

In the sad catalogue of human misery that makes up so much of the history of this century, it would be hard to find a people who have been subjected to greater cruelty, misery and persecution than the Armenians. Because of the persecutions inflicted upon them they have been forced to establish homes in other countries. Australia is one of those countries.

There is an old saying in the English language — "it's an ill wind that blows no one good". Most certainly the Armenians have been subjected to the ill winds of fate, but great good has been done to Australia by those Armenians who have settled here.

They have brought with them independence, initiative, courage and a distinctive national culture. Small in numbers though they are by comparison to other national groups who have settled here, their contribution to our growing nation has far outweighed their numbers. Australia is the richer for their presence.

Father Mirzaian's work on behalf of the Armenian community is too well known to require any comment from me. "The Comprehensive Armenian Address Book", of Australia, is invaluable to anyone who wishes to learn of the Armenian people, their history, culture and suffering. I cannot commend it too highly, and I wish all Armenians a full and happy life in Australia.

JOHN SPENDER, Q.C., M.P.

Federal member for North Sydney.

PREFACE

Although with some difficulty and work over a number of years, it has been possible to publish this book on the Armenian Community in Australia, with the good intention that migrant Armenian families and persons will benefit from it by being able to locate and keep in contact with each other.

Fortunately, the number of supporters have far exceeded those with a negative attitude, and, encouraged by this fact, during the last two decades ten volumes of work have been published, especially on the Armenian communities in Australia and the Far East.

The reader, by going through the pages of this book, will undoubtedly notice that the Armenian community in Australia is gradually increasing and multiplying in number, while the formerly prosperous and historic migration centres in the Far East are nearly extinct or all living their sunset.

I have no pretence of being an historian nor a writer of history. My aim has been to put in writing, with some detail, facts and events which have occurred in the community, at its proper time, to record and preserve them for posterity.

As a student of history and as a clergyman, I visited on many occasions the comunities in the Far East, admired their glorious past, been proud of their towering achievements, of their patriotism, but subsequently saddened and shed tears because of their present state. To record some historic Armenian communities in Far Eastern cities, with their beautiful Churches, which are devoid of Armenian worshippers, church bells silent and the gates closed forever — Dacca, Bombay, Madras, Chinsoura, Seidabad, Rangoon, Singapore, Djakarta, Sourabaya and Kharbin. In these cities, prior to the second world war, an appreciable number of Armenians lived, but today only a few persons remain in each place. Churches are empty, cemeteries desolate without the care of their owners.

Calcutta is the only exception. Although the number of community members has diminished considerably, they still have a parish priest sent from Holy Etchmiadzin, 1st January, 1983.

Father Aramais Mirzaian

the churches are open, and the two educational institutions, the Armenian College and Davidian Girls School are active. The number of students is reduced considerably as there are no new arrivals from Iraq and Iran to study in Calcutta. Many Armenian inhabitants of Calcutta have emigrated to England, U.S.A. and to Australia.

With the extinction of the Far Eastern Armenian Communities the recently formed comunity in Australia has flourished. In spite of all the difficulties for settlement, it has undertaken a heavy and onerous task — to keep its identity and its language. Religious, cultural and national life is of a good standard. There exists a good competitive spirit among organisations and it is our wish that this co-operation continues for the benefit of the community.

To all who have helped and encouraged me in this undertaking, especially my dear daughter Mrs. Armene Demirdjian, I would express my sincere thanks.

FATHER ARAMAIS MIRZAIAN

ARMENIA

Soviet Armenia is a land of high mountains, fertile valleys, azure sky, dazzling sun, transparent lakes and turbulent streams.

The imprint left by Armenia's eventful and stormy past, together with its age-old national culture and splendid natural scenery abounding in sharp contrasts, lends it a character of unmatched distinctiveness.

Tens of thousands of inquisitive tourists come to Armenia from different countries. Are they attracted by the relics of antiquity or by the natural contrasts? Is it anticipation of communion with the world's oldest civilization or a desire to know more about Armenia's present-day life that brings them here? You will probably find an answer in the following words uttered by Rockwell Kent, a prominent American artist: "If asked in what place of the world one is likely to find the greatest number of wonders, I would name Armenia first of all . . ."

In any event, Armenia lavishly showers a host of impressions on its guests.

The Armenian people, who created great cultural values in the remote past, were later forced to engage in age-long armed struggles to defend the creation of their hands and their very right to existence. Every time, after expelling invading aliens, they restored their ruined towns, villages and invaluable cultural monuments and continued to forge ahead firmly believing in a better future.

In the course of their history, the Armenians created a written language and literature of their own, produced masterpieces of early and medieval architecture, gave the world great writers and philosophers, and preserved through the storms of the ages the immortal heroic epic, David of Sassun, and thousands of priceless manuscripts, testimony of the moral integrity of the nation that has made an appreciable contribution to the development of world civilization.

Within the past sixty years Soviet Armenia has travelled a path equal to centuries , scoring major successes in social life, science and technology.

A rendezvous with Armenia and its industrious people promises to be very interesting.

Armenian Intourists offers you its traditional hospitality and friendship.

ARMENIAN MARTYRS' DAY

THE HON. PETER COLLINS, MEMBER FOR WILLOUGHBY, SHADOW MINISTER FOR CONSUMER AFFAIRS AND THE ARTS

Peter Edward James Collins was born in Lismore, N.S.W., in 1947 and is aged 35. He was elected Member for Willoughby in the 1981 New South Wales election — being the only Liberal to win back a seat from Labor in that election.

While gaining the Degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws at the University of Sydney, Peter Collins was very active in student politics. He was a director of the University Union, active on the Students' Representative Council and edited various University publications.

He was commissioned in Sydney University Regiment and served as a Platoon Commander until transferring to the Army Reserve Commando Unit at Georges Heights. There he qualified as a Military parachutist.

Peter Collins spent three years as a television journalist with ABC-TV at Gore Hill, working at a researcher for 'Monday Conference' and 'Four Corners' and, finally as a reporter for 'This Day Tonight' where he covered N.S.W. Parliamentary rounds.

He spent two years as Public Relations Manager for the Liberal Party in N.S.W. from 1976 to 1978. He established his own company, Assignment Pty. Ltd., after leaving ABC-TV to provide media training and advice to Australian industry.

He has also served as a Lieutenant in the Royal Australian Naval Reserve attached to the Maritime headquarters based at Garden Island. In 1977, he produced and directed a documentary film about the Naval Reserve called 'Anchorman'.

A member of the Liberal Party for twelve years, Peter has served as Vice President, Killara Young Liberals; President, Woollahra Branch; Chairman, Defence and Foreign Affairs Committee; and Member, Law and Justice Committee.

He is a practising barrister and an executive member of the Australian Communications Law Association and Council for Civil Liberties.

On the day he entered the N.S.W. Parliament, Mr. Collins was appointed Shadow Minister for Consumer Affairs and the Arts.

ADDRESS TO THE ARMENIAN MARTYRS' DAY AUDIENCE BY Mr. PETER COLLINS, M.P., MEMBER FOR WILLOUGHBY, ON THE 24th APRIL, 1982, AT THE CHATSWOOD TOWN HALL

Your Grace, Rev. Fathers, Parliamentary colleagues, John Spender, Terry Metherell, George Paciullo, Ladies and Gentlemen,

My Parliamentary Leader, John Dowd, is overseas and has asked me to apologise for his inability to be with us.

It is both my honour and sad duty to recall a moment in history of overwhelming significance to all of us here tonight.

It was on this day that Australians waited on ships to go ashore to do battle in Turkey and to face our nation's baptism of fire.

And it was on this day, that the Turkish Government began its systematic extermination of the Armenian people.

The Anzac landing at Gallipolli will always rank amongst the world's great classic tragedies by reason of the beauty of its setting, the grandeur of its theme, and the unhappiness of its ending.

The Armenian genocide — fixed at that same moment in history — must be recognised as one of modern man's most monstrous acts of barbarism. So dreadful and so shameful, that we can hardly bear to recall what happened.

Today we live under a nuclear shadow — all of us facing immediate extinction if that fine balance between the super-powers is upset — and perhaps one act of madness could destroy the civilisation we know.

But what happened in Armenia — the cradle of civilisation — 67 years ago was not a single act of madness but millions of individual acts of cruelty, each contemplated and executed by one human being personally against another.

In this century — this age of knowledge and dazzling scientific achievement — our minds are incapable of grasping the extent or significance of such an atrocity.

Our existence is largely made up of a succession of ordinary problems and simple joys, so that the sheer magnitude of travesties such as Biafra and Bangladesh, Auschwitz and Armenia is unimaginable.

Yet it was the Armenian people who had the unenviable distinction of bearing the first and too-often-forgotten holocaust of modern times.

What crime can a people commit?

And, of all the minorities in the then Ottoman Empire, why the Armenians?

The first mark against the Armenian people was that they were a devout, closely knit Christian community within a largely Islamic autocracy.

Secondly, despite Turkish Government discrimination against them, the Armenians were a relatively prosperous community in a sea of backwardness and laziness.

Although, over the centuries, many Armenians were slaughtered, forced to convert to Islam or were forced to emigrate, the Armenians were frankly envied by the Turks who looked covetously at their achievements and their possessions.

Despite frequent persecution and blatant discrimination, the Armenian people went from strength to strength while Turkey stood still.

European nations began to chide the Turks for their anti-Armenian policies and pressed for certain reforms.

The Turks in turn resented what they saw as outside interference and gradually resolved to put an end to such complaints by removing the source of the outcry.

Although by 1896, at least 80,000 Armenians had been slaughtered, this was merely the beginning.

With the outbreak of the 1914-1918 War, the young Turks as the so called 'Committee of Union and Progress' was called — saw their chance to annhilate the Armenian nation.

With European attention focussed on the Dardanelles campaign, and the imposition of strict war time control at home, the butchery of the Armenian people could be disguised with relative ease until it was too late for others, even if willing, to intervene.

Carefully, the Turks laid down their plans. First to be eliminated were the 100,000 Armenian conscripts within the Ottoman armed forces — this destroyed any real probability of organised armed resistance by young Armenian men.

Armenians had already established a superb reputation as soldiers serving the Sultan, the Khedive of Egypt and the 19th century Tsars.

It is worth noting that, in the 1939-45 War, no less than 106 Armenian soldiers, sailors and airmen won the title of Hero of the Soviet Union, the Soviets highest decoration for bravery, the equivalent of our Victoria Cross.

Sixty officers of Armenian descent rose to be Admirals, Generals or Marshalls of the Soviet Union.

Young Armenians serving in unarmed labour battalions (roughly equivalent to today's engineers) built many roads and railways while serving in the Ottoman army.

The order was given for them to be set upon by Turkish units.

Very few escaped being either bludgeoned to death or shot.

Having thereby removed any potential armed resistance, Armenian community leaders were the next target. More than 1,000 priests, poets, doctors, intellectuals (including the great composer Komitas) were rounded-up on this day in Constantinople. They were sent away and butchered.

But it was for Armenian women and children that the most heinous acts of barbarism were reserved.

Done under the ominous title of 'The Final Solution' much of the Armenian population was uprooted for resettlement in the desert.

Thirst, sunstroke and starvation claimed hundreds of thousands of lives.

Infants were forcibly removed from their families to so-called orphanages which turned out to pits dug in the ground, into which the children were hurled alive to be covered up with piles of stones.

Women and old people — forced to march hundreds of miles — were waylaid by bands of ruffians who were given government permission to kill the Armenians and steal their possessions.

Neither food nor water was provided.

Many went mad and were left to die of thirst.

Some fortunate women and children were sold into slavery while Turkish soldiers raped and then usually murdered the more attractive Armenian women and girls.

To those who set out on such journeys to hell, it can only be said that they did not visualise the extent of the intended infamy or the horrors of the fate before them.

It is human nature not to face the unendurable.

If the Turkish soldiers at Gallipolli are remembered for their tenacity, then those who beset the Armenians must be remembered for their remorseless brutality and barbarism.

Charged with implementing 'The Final Solution' Interior Minister, Talaat Bey (a Bulgarian gypsy) said that the Turkish Government had decided to destroy completely all Armenians living in Turkey.

'An end must be put to their existence, however criminal the measures taken may be, and no regard must be had to either age or sex nor to conscientious scruples', Bey said.

There is no record of any Turkish outcry against these atrocities — quite the contrary. The Governor of Trebizond, for instance, used his official launch to convey panic-stricken Armenian refugees (they thought) to safety.

Once well out into the Black Sea, the Armenians were thrown overboard by the Turkish crew and left to drown.

For many Turks, the Genocide was an orgy of violence and destruction.

If there was a Turkish conscience about this issue, it was never aired. If there has ever been repentence, the world does not know about it.

It was that silence about the Armenian Genocide which prepared the ground for an even bigger genocide a quarter of a century later.

While individual German officers and consuls protested about the fate of the Armenian people, few reports were printed in German newspapers.

One brave German General observed that the Turks seemed more interested in killing unarmed Armenians than well-armed Russian and British soldiers.

From Europe, no help came.

In the words of the English poet, W. H. Auden (in the 'The Shield of Achilles'):

'The mass and majesty of this world, all that carries weight and always weighs the same lay in the hands of others; they were small and could not hope for help and no help came.'

America and England condemned the Turkish atrocities, but such support was purely verbal and very distant. In that respect, the Armenian Genocide set the pattern and the seal for further mass atrocity in the modern world.

Over the period 1915-23, over one and a half million Armenians were killed; about half a million fled to the Soviet Union; about 200,000 were forced to become Moslems. Including the estimated 400,000 Armenians killed between 1894-1913, Turkey reduced its Armenian population by two and a half million Armenians over three decades.

The means by which that change occurred has never been acknowledged by a Turkish government. There has been no reparation, no atonement, no contrition. The Armenian Genocide has been ignored by the Turks.

Germany has had the courage to admit its collective responsibility to the Jewish people for the holocaust, Turkey has the same moral obligation to the Armenians.

The Former West German Chancellor, Konrad Adenauer, said in 1965:

"The German people as a whole is responsible. They ought to be made conscious of this responsibility. It is not only the duty of each one to repair and expiate, but also the duty of the entire German people to make sure that the state will never again commit such crimes."

"Those horrible years impose yet another obligation on the German people — to continue to uphold throughout the world the postulate of man's individual freedom and the dignity of his person as a fundamental condition for all genuine peace and for all real human progress."

The same responsibility extends to Turkey and still the free world waits for the Turkish Government to acknowledge responsibility for the actions of former Turkish regimes.

The Armenian question will not go away — it hangs over Turkey in a dreadful pall.

When that acknowledgement is made, and unless the annihilation of more than one and a half million Armenians is remembered, history will continue to repeat itself.

Such responsibility is awesome. Such memories are shameful — but only in this way can the differences of the past be laid to rest.

To the Armenian National Committee, I give you my undertaking — when the N.S.W. Parliament resumes — to introduce a motion along the lines of that moved in Canada's Ontario Parliament which Mr. Pailagian outlined to us.

Only a couple of hours drive from the mass grave of Dachau in Bavaria, is one of the most breath-taking and beautiful places I have seen: Obersalzburg.

There, beneath the snow-capped mountains, are dotted picturesque chalets, complete with window-boxes of splendid flowers. The grass is lush and green — a stunning and charming environment.

But in that very environment — this century's, greatest butcher, Adolf Hitler made his plans to re-settle the Jews and provide another 'Final Solution'.

When he did so — on 22nd August, 1939 — he paused for a fleeting second and reflected

'After all, who remembers today the extermination of the Armenians?'

The answer is and must always be:

We do, so does every compassionate and civilised man so that such horror will never again stalk the earth.

ARMENIAN LANGUAGE

ARMENIAN LANGUAGE STUDIES: NEEDS AND ACHIEVEMENTS

By Sirarpi Ohannessian

The author was Director of the English for Speakers of Other Languages Program, Center for Applied Linguistics, Washington, D.C.

Introduction

The study of the Armenian language has a long history, but the greatest amount of work on it has been done in the last century or so with the last few decades representing the most productive period thanks chiefly to the work of scholars in Soviet Armenia. Much of the earlier work was concerned with 'grabar' or the classical, written language which, with very little change since the early fifth century A.D. when it was committed into writing with the translation of the Scriptures, had served as the main vehicle for sacred and much of secular writing. However, gradually through the centuries this language had become incomprehensible to the common people, whose language, known as 'ashkharhabar' or the lay language, had undergone great changes and was spoken in a great variety of dialects. Only for a period in medieval times had a dialect of 'ashkharhabar' served as the official written language of a state — the Armenian kingdom of Cilica. During the 19th century, mainly through the concentrated efforts of the intelligencia, two main forms of 'ashkharhabar' emerged as literary languages — East and West Armenian — and became gradually standardised. At present East Armenian is spoken in Iran, Soviet Armenia, and in other parts of the U.S.S.R. where there are Armenian-speaking communities. West Armenian is spoken in the rest of the diaspora, including Syria, Lebanon, Egypt, Turkey, France, the United States, Canada, Latin America, and a number of other countries where there are Armenian colonies.

The main areas in which research is needed include the Armenian language itself. from the point of view of modern methods of analysis and description; its role in and relationship to the private and social life of members of different Armenian communities; and its teaching to those who do not speak it as a native language. Its teaching to native speakers is another area of great interest but will not be discussed in this paper.

Needs in Linguistic Study and Research

A very large proportion of the existing literature on Armenian falls within this category, that is, it is devoted to the study of the language itself. A number of the earlier works, especially those written by foreign scholars, are written from the point of view of comparative philology. Recent works by Soviet Armenian scholars concentrate in geneal on East Armenian, and cover a very wide range of aspects including the history of the language; history of Armenian linguistics; dialectology and descriptions of particular dialects and numerous grammatical studies of varying specialisation and depth, with H. Adjarian's 'Complete Grammar of the Armenian Language, with Comparison to 562 Languages' being the most exhaustive.

The theoretical framework within which most of the recent Soviet work on the Armenian language has been performed has not, on the whole, been influenced very much by modern theories developed in the West, and has relied a great deal on Russian linguistics. E. G. Aghayan, in the introduction to his 'Declension and Conjugation of Contemporary Armenian (Structural Analysis'), published in 1967, acknowledges the tremendous advances that have taken place in linguistics within the last thirty years, mentions the resulting controversies and remarks that Soviet linguistics did not have a receptive attitude towards developments outside the Soviet Union until the last decade. In justifying his own creation of a number of new terms for the text, he points out that the fact that "this type of research has not been carried out in the Armenian language, and therefore up to now no Armenian words have been created as equivalents to these international terms."

Even in a work as recent as this, however, although the bibliography contains over 380 Russian language and 89 Armenian entries, "other" language entries (e.g. English, French and German) are only 30 in number and include only a handful of American authors, including Bloomfield (1935 London edition), Greenberg (1957), Hill (1958), Hockett (1958), Hoeningswald (1960), Pike (1961), and Whatmough (1956). In another work, 'History of Linguistics' (1962) by G. B. Jahoukian, a very substantial section on American descriptive linguistics has numerous references to articles in 'Language, Word, the International Journal of American Linguistics', etc. (as well as to separate works) by such linguists as Bloomfield, Haugan, Joos, Pike, R. A. Hall, Harris, Block, Nida, Hockett, Voegelin, R. S. Wells, Troge and H. L. Smith, but relies on material published prior to 1956. On the other hand, American linguists are barely aware of the works of Adjarian, Abeghian, Aghayan, Djahoukian, Garibian, Sevak, Arakelian, and a number of others, some of whom have specialised in dialectology and produced detailed descriptions of regional varieties of the language.

It seems clear that one main area of endeavour would be to establish closer lines of communication between Armenian and American linguists. A first step might be an increased exchange of literature in both directions, and the institution of translation and abstraction for works of some theoretical importance, again in both directions. Another step might be the exchange of visiting linguists between institutions in the United States, such as Harvard, Columbia University, and the University of California or Los Angeles, where there are Armenian studies and strong departments of linguistics, and institutions in Armenia involved in both theoretical and applied linguistics. This pattern of exchange would not only be helpful in facilitating the flow of information, but might also influence Soviet Armenian linguists to take a more active research in West Armenian.

One perhaps minor but very important point in the area of exchange of information, at least for those of us who read Soviet Armenian literature on linguistics, is a plea that Soviet Armenian linguists give some consideration to the adoption of a widely used system of phonetic transcription. The present practice of using Armenian characters for phonetic transcription sometimes causes confusion and presents considerable difficulty, at least for the writer who is a native speaker of standard West Armenian. If such a step is not feasible, it would be most useful to have a handbook of equivalences in terminology and phonetic symbols with some well-established system.

To turn to specific areas needing research, as was stated above, the areas of syntax and phonology appear to need most attention, especially for West Armenian. Varak Arakelian, the author of the first extensive work on East Armenian syntax in his introduction acknowledges the fact that the study of syntax has been the most neglected area of Armenian grammar and says that from this point of view, West Armenian has been even more neglected and that its syntax has had virtually no attention given to it and "still awaits its researcher." Except for Gordon H. Fairbank's 'Phonology and Morphology of Modern Spoken West Armenian', an unpublished dissertation submitted at the University of Wisconsin (1948), there is very little systematic treatment of the sound system of the western variety.

Other specific areas that need attention are comparative studies of standard East and West Armenian in their present spoken and written forms.There is a great deal of information on this in the various works of Adjarian, which are perhaps somewhat dated now, but this writer knows of no recent work where this information is brought together, updated, and presented in a systematic form. Another area is the development of West Armenian, at least in the more populous colonies. Such studies might yield very interesting information on the aspects of development in a language which has a limited range of service to the speech community it serves and is in constant contact with a language of wider communication which is used by the same speech community for a large part of its activities.

Contrastive studies between West Armenian and such languages as English and French constitute another important area. These languages are spoken natively by many young Armenians in the diaspora, and a comparative study would have important pedagogical implications since it would help to pinpoint areas of potential difficulty which these people may have in learning Armenian. Such studies, matched with the observed "mistakes" that students make in speaking or writing Armenian, would help explain the causes for errors of pronunciation, grammar, or vocabulary and aid the preparation of teaching materials. Vocabulary studies on frequency, usefulness, etc., would also be useful from the pedagogical point of view. The perparation of adequate dictionaries of West Armenian, especially with attention to pronunciation and usage, would be of great service in the diaspora.

Although it might meet with opposition from some members of the Armenian community of the diaspora, it might be useful to give consideration to spelling reform in West Armenian since there is a great deal of redundancy in the writing system, owing to sound change in the language.

Needs for Research in Language in a Social Context

The next category, that is the study of language as it functions in the individual and social life of the community which it serves, is perhaps the area that needs most work.

One of the most interesting readings in Armenian studies is Hratchia Adjarian's account in his 'History of the Armenian Language', of the shaping of the two "literary" forms of East and West Armenian in the second half of the 19th century. He traces the factors that brought about the adoption of the two dialects of Constantinople and Yerevan as the bases of the two literary varieties; the considerations that entered into the selection of grammatical and lexical forms; the strong feelings that helped to determine policies in vocabulary formation, not only for creating new words to meet new needs, but for "purifying" the language of foreign elements and for resorting to the classical language (rather than borrowing, even from European languages) as a source for these needs.

The task was accomplished through the determined efforts of a host of people from all walks of life, ranging from the learned fathers of the Mekhitarist monasteries in Venice and Vienna to the humblest student who, with his "word book" and "song book" as constant companions, learned and spread the use of the "literary" language. The Armenian press played a very important role in the movement, but novelists, poets, writers, actors, playwrights, numerous translators teachers, dictionary makers, clergymen, and ordinary citizens all had a hand in it.

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of the period is the way language policy was formed and implemented, albeit with controversy on many points, within a speech community which even at that time was functioning through languages of wider communication for a great deal of its everyday activities, and in spite of which, in a comparatively short time, succeeded in establishing the major characteristics of the two standard literary forms.

At that time, the function of the language in the two communities was somewhat parallel, and there were efforts at unifying the two forms, but Adjarian closes his account of this with the sad commentary that the question can now be considered closed with the elimination of the Armenian population of Asia Minor. "Of the colonies," he says, "the Armenians of America are on the eve of losing the language. The Armenian colonies of France, Rumania, Bulgaria, Greece, Turkey, and Egypt are small in number. The Armenians of Syria, though sufficiently numerous, are not, after all, more than half of the population of Yerevan."

The two varieties have diverged considerably in their function, and although there is much overlap, the purposes they serve now show significant variation. East Armenian is the official language of a state, and is the spoken language of its people. It serves a multitude of purposes including use as the medium of instruction in the educational system, the language for legal, governmental, scientific, social, cultural, industrial, commercial, and many other activities. Its development is in answer to the very practical needs of the wide range of occupations and social and educational levels in the community it serves, which, in turn, has close political, economic, social, industrial ties with the wider speech community of the U.S.S.R. On the other hand, West Armenian, as we have seen, sustains a precarious existence in even the larger colonies, where Armenians have to resort to the use of local languages of wider communication for a large proportion of their activities.

It must be stated here that the two dialects are mutually intelligible to educated native speakers. Indeed Adjarian, after pointing out a number of differences between the two dialects, claims that "Armenian remains as one single language for all more or less educated Armenians."

Even a cursory glance at the Armenian press of the diaspora makes it evident that there is a great desire, at least on the part of some Armenians, to preserve the Armenian language and make young people of Armenian descent proficient in it. It would be of great importance to examine the relation of language to Armenian national identify and to study objectively the attitude of the community in general, or at least a cross section of it, regarding these points. Psycholinguists working in such universities as McGill in Canada and Columbia and Yeshiva in the United States have developed very ingenious and sensitive techniques to measure language attitudes and the role of language in a social context. They base their conclusions on observed behavior rather than on what their subjects say about their behavior. It would be interesting, for instance, to determine the attitude of English-speaking American Armenians towards the Armenian language itself; towards Armenians who do not speak a Western language such as English and French; towards those Armenians for whom English is obviously an acquired rather than native language and so on.

It would be interesting to determine what language is used in the homes of Armenians who claim to speak the language, not based on this claim, but on the observation of their behaviour, perhaps having parents observe their children, children observe their parents, and perhaps friends and neighbors observe the entire family in order to provide a day to day account of what language is used, when and for what purposes. It would be interesting to find out what proportion of the community which participates in Armenian social, religious, and cultural activities in non-Armenian-speaking, and what the factors are that still tie them to the community. Studies based on objective data on the behavior of people might show major trends in the direction in which language use is moving and thus be very useful in helping us to understand the position and use of Armenian in the diaspora.

Other studies that might reveal trends in the use of Armenian might be objective studies of what language or languages are being used in a variety of social situations such as religious services (including Catholic and Protestant), Sunday school, social functions, meetings of the numerous and varied associations — political, cultural, compatriot, benevolent, etc.: — which Armenians are fond of establishing wherever they go. Comparative surveys of a few Armenian colonies, with special emphasis on language would be very informative and useful.

One important area of study is the relationship of language to the careers and occupations open to Armenians in the diaspora. This is perhaps especially important in such countries as Syria, Lebanon, Iran, Egypt, and Iraq, where there are sizeable communities and Armenian schools. It might be interesting to conduct comparative studies in a few places like Teheran, Beirut, and Aleppo as compared with say, Los Angeles and Montreal. To what degree are Armenians monolingual, bilingual, or multilingual in these places and in what languages? To what uses are the various languages put in the everyday lives of people? What languages does a young Armenian have to study in his elementary or secondary school in the various localities? What languages does he need in order to prepare for a professional career? What relationship is there between time spent on Armenian, or the use of Armenian as a medium of instruction and the ground to be covered in order to compete with non-Armenians? What factors, other than language, enter into the selection of a career?

Another area of interest is the Armenian press of the diaspora, since much of what is written in West Armenian probably appears in periodical literature at present. It would be instructive to conduct studies on the intelligibility of the language used in these papers to young Armenians who have learned Armenian as a second language and are probably able to command only limited levels of it. It would be interesting to study the stylistic devices used, choice of vocabulary, complexity of sentence structure and so on as compared with the formal and informal spoken language of native speakers. It would also be interesting to study the subject matter in newspapers, the proportion of space devoted to Armenian party politics, culture, history, creative writing, world news, and so on, to find out how much of interest there is for the young Armenian for whom Armenian is a learned, rather than native, language. This is not, perhaps, strictly a matter of language, but since reading is one of the easiest ways of exposure to a language and since the availability of interesting material is of great importance in reinforcing knowledge of the language once literacy is established, such a study might have important implications for learning Armenian. A study of the approximate age, educational background and interests of both readers and contributors to the present Armenian press could be very revealing, and might point to the need for special periodical literature for people whose interests may be different from those who constitute the majority of readers of present day papers in the diaspora.

Needs in Pedagogical Study and Research

In the preceding pages several references have already been made to needed research that would have pedagogical implications. The following paragraphs will provide only a few practical suggestions.

One question that comes up with the teaching of Armenian is which dialect to teach. There are good reasons for choosing either the Eastern or the Western varieties. However, the assumption in this paper is that one important reason for teaching the Armenian language is communication with older relatives and other Armenians in the diaspora, who are mostly speakers of West Armenian. Also, since the learning of a new language needs constant reinforcement through practice, and since it is easier to find speakers of West Armenian than East Armenian in the diaspora, it seems more feasible to teach the Western variety first and then attempt to give at least a passive understanding of the Eastern one later. For this reason, it seems very important to prepare a comparative study of the two dialects as a first step towards understanding the differences between the two and laying the foundation for the study of East Armenian later.

One important current need at the moment is a survey of existing materials for teaching West Armenian together with an annotated bibliography, including reference to available grammars, dictionaries, instructional materials, and teachers' guides. The following paragraphs are written without the help of such a bibliography and may have overlooked important works that may exist.

One of the most urgent needs at present appears to be the preparation of well-sequenced, balanced, and pedagogically sound series of instructional materials for various age levels and varying language backgrounds. If it is not economically feasible to prepare special materials for speakers of American English, French, Spanish, and so on, it seems imperative to prepare accompanying teachers' handbooks or guides for each language background. These guides, if not the texts themselves, should be based on up-to-date descriptions of West Armenian and on contrastive analyses of the native and target language, as well as on observed interference from the native languages that the students speak. They should have careful instructions on the use of the texts, on how to conduct oral work, and provide additional exercises that would be most suitable to overcome the particular problem of each speech group, especially at the pronunciation level, though grammar, vocabulary and idiomatic usage will also need much attention. The emphasis, however, needs to be concentrated on making students learn how to use the language through much practice rather than on providing extensive information on its grammatical structure. A careful grading of such structure should underlie the materials presented in the texts, with explanations where necessary, especially in the teachers' guides. It would be useful to have tapes and records to accompany the teaching materials, especially if teachers are not native speakers of Armenian themselves.

Such specially prepared materials seem to be most urgently needed for young children since most of the present texts used with them appear to be intended for children who are native speakers of Armenian, and on the whole stress reading rather than providing oral work to build up skills in speaking it. Adult learners are more fortunate in that there are a number of texts written in French and English for them. However, the emphasis in most of these is on providing a great deal of detailed information on grammar and usage rather than on building up oral skills, and the stress again is on the written language. Reading and writing can form an important part of the courses but the greatest needs at present are for texts that the Armenian teacher can use with a group of adults who wish to acquire a speaking knowledge of the language, as well as some skill in reading and writing it. Such materials, programmed for self-instructional purposes, would be very useful indeed for adults.

Some of the existing texts for adults mentioned above can serve as reference grammars, but they are mostly traditionally orientated. It would be very useful to produce reference grammars that are based on modern approaches to language description and the present state of Armenian itself. These, with the adequate dictionaries mentioned above, could form the basic tools for those who may have the task of preparing instructional materials, and provide much needed information on the language to the many teachers and students of Armenian in the diaspora.

Conclusion

It seems clear that there is a great deal to be done on the above aspects of language study and research outlined above, i.e needs in linguistic study and research; research on language in a social context; and pedagogical study and research. The implementation of the suggestions given will need funds, trained personnel, and co-operation from a wide range of the Armenian speech community.

Universal language needed — Anthropologists pick Armenian

The world speaks with a confusion of tongues — some 2,800 languages. Needed in an age of communication satellites and jet airplanes is a universal language.

Whose country shall be so honoured? What qualities should the worldwide language have?

Prof. Sol Tax, University of Chicago anthropologist, says it must be a natural language that has proved its viability, be comfortable, easily learned and translated into other languages and has been rigorously tested by logic.

Above all, it must not be the language of a leading country because of a political advantage that it would confer.

"I would rule out English, German, French, Spanish and several others," Tax said.

He votes for Malayan, but quickly accedes to the preference of Margaret Mead and other professional colleagues for Armenian as a second language to be spoken all over the world.

"Meets Criteria" — Armenian meets the criteria, Tax says. "It has other built-in advantages. There is an Asiatic as well as a European Armenian. In addition, there are colonies of Armenians all over the world. You have a ready-made teaching and translating device.

"Yet it is not widely enough used to have apolitical implications."

ARMENIAN CHRISTMAS HYMNS

The origin and use of hymns, as well as the whole of the Armenian Mass with its complete development which has reached us up to today, dates back to the year 301, when Christianity became the state religion of Armenia.

The question is raised immediately as to what happened to the music connected with the rites of Armenian pagan religion. Has it vanished forever or, after certain changes, was it introduced into the book of hymns of the Armenian Church.

Unfortunately, no decisive fact exists in this regard on which one can base a conclusion. In any case we can positively argue that pagan music could not have been completely and once and for all put aside, because it was impossible to compose hymns from one day to the other.

Moreover, due to the fact that pagan music was rich in melodic content and was very much loved by the people, it would seem unlikely that it was immediately forgotten and replaced by music hastily composed.:

As the first nation to formally adopt Christianity, it is also not possible that Armenians borrowed or were influenced from the Greeks or Byzantines, because they too had not formalised their rites in the new religion.

Naturally, it was not easy to eradicate pre-Christian era music, which exposed the originality and individuality of its people.

An important part of this music, after certain modifications, would have entered the music of the new religion. A similar approach was not only probable but also practicable.:

The great Armenian musicologist and composer, Komitas Vartabed, in this connection states: "Up to the invention of the Armenian alphabet (5th Century) Armenian religious rites consisted of psalms. As to how these psalms were sung, nothing is known; probably pagan music was used for this purpose".

After the invention of the Armenian alphabet, when the Bible was translated into the Armenian language, religious rites were gradually enriched and popularised.

Music writers appeared who composed religious hymns and enabled singers to read the music notes. By this method religious rites became more attractive and refined, and contributed to the spread and assimilation of the new religion. Hymn tunes gradually replaced those of the old pagan psalms.

Hymns are religious songs with rhythm. Their content is the expression of the accepted beliefs of the Church and in them the expression of a strong religious spirit exists.: Their content is based on Christian faith, Church rites and the part played by the Saints in the propagation of our Christian religion.

The great illuminator of the Armenian Church in the 7th century, Komitas Catholicos, undertook to rewrite and refine musical rhythms. His best-known work still enjoying great popularity, "Antzink Nevirialk", i.e., "Devoted Persons" is a hymn which he dedicated to the memory of the martyress St. Hripsime. This hymn is composed of 36 lines, which is the number of letters in the Armenian alphabet, and each line begins with the order of letters in the alphabet, as do some psalms and the Lamentation of Jeremia.

In the 8th century the mass book and rites book were greatly enriched with new melodies and hymns which were composed and developed by Vahan of Goghtn and Stepanos Sunetzi.

Beginning from early times, i.e.: from the beginning of the 5th century, Armenian clergymen had already solved the problem of musical annotation.: Armenian translators who had studied in Greece, had brought with them Greek musical notes and signs. These were utilised to express the New Testament in psalms by musical notes. The earliest such psalm to have reached us written in musical annotation dates back to the 9th century.

Armenian religious music reached its peak in the 11th and 12th centuries. The greatest composer and writer of that period is Nerses Shnorhaly. He worked very hard to compose typically Armenian Church melodies and to purify Armenian music from alien elements and influence:. Thanks to Shnorhally, the originality of the ryhthm in Armenian Church music was first recognised. He wrote the words of his hymns to conform with the unique rhythm of the music. He is the author and composer of the most beautiful hymns in the Armenian liturgy.: He successfully solved two problems. Firstly, he composed typical and original Armenian hymns, and secondly he introduced the element of rhythm into religious music. These two factors played a great role in the establishing and developing of a distinct Armenian religious music idiom.

We have little information about Armenian music from the second half of 18th century to the beginning of 19th century.

We know that in Constantinople, rich Armenian "Amyras", i.e.: sponsors who supported Armenian Churches, also sponsored a number of singers who, according to Komitas Vartabed, "were doing their utmost to surpass each other in false interpretations thus destroying and changing the true nature of the music of hymns and liturgical music".

Kevork IV, an early eighteenth century Catholicos of all Armenians, who was also the founder of the Kevorkian Seminary, invited to Etchmiadzin, the headquarters of the Armenian Church, Nicola Tashjian and other experts in religious music, who with their combined efforts composed a text book which was published in 1874. The co-ordination and harmony of hymns they introduced facilitated their reading and interpretation by the clergy as well as by choirs. Finally, two other works were published "Hymns with Musical Annotation" and likewise the "Music of the Holy Mass".

The Mekhitarist congregation (Venice) in 1877 for the first time, tried to transcribe the harmony of the Mass in European notes.: This work was done by Pietro Piancini:. The title of the book is 'Religious Songs of Armenian Church Mass'.

Later, it was the turn of Emy Apcar from Calcutta, India.: The title of her work was "Mass Service".

The third person to thus occupy himself was Magar Yegmalian whose work entitled "Mass" is for male voices and mixed choir. This is the mass that is sung up to the present day in Armenian churches the world over.

"The Music of the Armenian Mass" by Komitas Vartabed is a very valuable work which has been developed by Vartan Sarkissian and published in Paris in 1933. Unfortunately in its composition the organ is not introduced which would have facilitated its use in our churches.

The Armenian composer Allan Hovhannes in America has successfully composed "Four Hymns" and "The Prayer of St. Nerses". The latter especially is an admirable work.

Father Ghevond Dayan of the Mekhitarist Congregation is working at present on a valuable work in which he seeks to reconstruct the exact nature of the hymns by applying the method of quarter tone measure. If he is not successful in this method, the application of the style of counter-point may be adopted by him.

The research and study of the Mass of the Armenian Church is in the course of systematic development. The latest valuable work in this respect has been done by Ruben Krikorian whose development of "Christmas Hymns" is exceptional and his original interpretation of Komitas' "Heavenly Mass Service of the Armenian Apostolic Church" is unequalled. Similar efforts of creative talents reflect faith, and serve to enforce a unique national spirit and culture.

ARMENIANS IN CALCUTTA

THE ARMENIAN COLLEGE AND PHILANTHROPIC ACADEMY

An account of the various functions held on the occasion of the inauguration of the new school building of the Armenian College and Philanthropic Academy, Calcutta from Tuesday, 1st to Monday, 7th April, 1975.

RECEPTION AT THE ARMENIAN CLUB ON TUESDAY, 1st APRIL, 1975, FROM 7 to 9 p.m.

The Armenian Club which has been the social centre of the community for the past many decades and is located in Queens Mansion, Park Street, formerly known as Galstaun Mansion, was the venue of a reception held in order to give an opportunity to the Managing Committee, Members of the Institution, prominent members of the community and members of the Armenian Club, together with their respective wives or husbands, to meet guests and overseas visitors in a friendly cordial atmosphere.

The Club was tastefully decorated with flowers and a special board in roses was fixed on the main wall with the following inscription:

"ARMENIAN COLLEGE 154th ANNIVERSARY"

Sir Biren Mookherjee, a prominent citizen and industrialist, His Grace Archbishop Artag Manoogian, Prelate of Armenian Diocese of Tehran, who had flown specially from Iran to participate in the functions, His Grace Bishop Hmayak Intoyan, a delegate of His Holiness Vazgen I, Supreme Patriarch and Catholicos of All Armenians, from the Holy See of Etchmiadzin, Rev. Father Hacob Geokjian, delegate of His Holiness Vazgen I and the officiating clergyman of the Armenian Holy Church of Nazareth, — Mr. A. I. Ejob, Soviet Consul General and Mrs. Ejob, — Mr. U. Than Maung, Consul General of the Republic of Burma and Mrs. Maung, and several other prominent guests attended the reception.

The Club premises contain the photographs of His Holiness Vazgen I, Supreme Patriarch and Catholicos of All Armenians, two group photographs taken during the historic visit of His Holiness to the Armenian Club in December 1963, and photographs of Messrs. T. M. Thaddeus, J. C. Galstaun, G. A. Arratoon and P. B. Alexy, who were prominent members of the Armenian community in Calcutta and past presidents of the Armenian Club. A friendly atmosphere prevailed throughout the reception and an enjoyable time was had by all present.

INAUGURATION OF THE NEW SCHOOL BUILDING HELD AT THE SCHOOL AUDITORIUM ON WEDNESDAY, 2nd APRIL, 1975 AT 6 p.m.

The special visitors and guests, school boys and girls of the Armnian College and Davidian Girls' School, had assembled on the lawns of the Armenian College for the inaugural function of the new school building. Sir Biren Mookherjee, the President of the occasion, and Lady Mookherjee were welcomed by Messrs. Caro A. Martin, Larry Martin and M. S. Marcar on behalf of the Managing Committee and Members of the Institution.

After the arrival of all the guests, Sir Biren, the president, was invited by Mr. V. Poladian, the School Principal, to cut the ribbon fixed on the main door, of the auditorium. Sir Biren cut the special ribbon of the tri-colour, red, blue and yellow, which are the school colours, and was heartily acclaimed by all present. Thereafter, the members of the Managing Committee and the Principal led Sir Biren to the platform of the auditorium and were followed by His Grace Archbishop Artag Manoogian, His Grace Bishop Hmayak Intoyan, Rev. Father Hacob Geokjian and other participants and speaker. Amongst the prominent guests of honour were The Hon'ble Mr Justice P. B. Mukherjee and Mrs. Mukherjee (Mr. Justice Mukherjee is the ex-Chief Justice of the Calcutta High Court and was also the President of the 150th Anniversary Celebrations of the Armenian College held in December, 1971), — also Mr. P. V. Komin, Consul of the U.S.S.R. in Calcutta, — Mr. J. P. Jackson, Director of the British Council, — Mrs. Anne Basil, a prominent community and social worker and ex-President of the All-India National Council of Women. Mrs. Basil is the author of the Book 'Armenian Settlements in India' published in 1969, the sale proceeds of which were donated towards the construction of the new school building. The College auditorium was decorated with flowers, and a special board made of roses with the inscription "Armenian College 154th Anniversary" was affixed to the wall of the stage.

The Programme started with a special prayer composed by His Grace Bishop Hmayak Intoyan on behalf of His Holiness Vazgen I, Supreme Patriarch and Catholicos of All Armenians.

Thereafter the School Song was sung by the school choir accompanied by the school orchestra.

Sir Biren was garlanded by one of the boys of the Armenian College, and a bouquet was presented to Lady Mookherjee by one of the girls of the Davidian Girls' School, with loud acclamation from the audience.

Mr. Caro A. Martin, who delivered the opening address on behalf of the Managing Committee welcomed Sir Biren and Lady Mookherjee, His Grace Archbishop Artag Manoogian, His Grace Bishop Hmayak Intoyan, Rev. Father Hacob Geokjian and all the overseas guests from Australia, Canada, Iran, and from other parts of India, and all others present at the function. Mr. Martin also gave a brief and impressive account of the establishment of the College, the various buildings, which had been constructed, acquired, or otherwise added to the College complex, and listed other relevant developments from its inception up to the present day.

Upon the conclusion of his opening address, Mr. Martin invited Sir Biren Mookherjee kindly to unveil the new Founder's Fund tablet which has been erected on the southern wall of the auditorium. The old marble tablet records all donations received from 1820 to 1850, which formed the original nucleus of the school fund. The new marble tablet now to be unveiled was covered by a velvet curtain specially made for the occasion and inscribed with the following words in golden letters "Armenian College 154th Anniversary". Sir Biren pulled the tassel and unveiled the tablet recording all recent donations received, which totalled the sum of Rs. 200,000/-. There was spontanious and hearty applause from the audience. Sir Biren was escorted back to the stage and the programme was resumed. The list of donations for the new school building has not been finalised yet, as donations are still being received from all over India and from overseas. The Managing Committee have decided to keep the list open up to 30th September, 1975, in order to give everyone an opportunity of contributing towards the fund. Here is an opportunity for scores of ex-pupils and well-wishers of the college to contribute towards a worthy and humanitarian cause. The new school building donors tablet covering all donations over Rs. 5,000.00/- will be erected and unveiled on the 2nd April, 1976, on the occasion of Founders Day and the 155th anniversary of the College. All other donations will be gratefully acknowledged and will be published in the forthcoming brochure.

Rev. Father Hacob Geokjian conveyed Patriarchal blessings and good wishes on behalf of His Holiness Vazgen I, Supreme Patriarch and Catholicos of All Armenians, to the Institution, to the Managing Committee, to Members of the Institution, the Principal and Staff, and wished them many more years of fruitful work for upholding the interest of the institution and for the welfare and advancement of the students.

Several important, appreciative messages were received in Armenian and in English from various parts of the world. These messages and congratulations were a source of additional encouragement and inspiration. The Armenian messages were read by Mr. V. Poladian and the English messages by Mr. Caro A. Martin. There was a list of twelve senders of congratulatory messages from every quarter of the world, headed by His Holiness Vazgen I and Professor Hambartzoomian.

Mr. V. Poladian, the Principal, spoke in English and outlined the role and effect of environment on students, and after stressing the importance of the new school building in this context, he thanked all those who had participated by contributing to its construction. He also spoke in Armenian emphasizing the special mission which the Armenian churches and schools had for building the national character, and reminded the students of their duties and obligation as Armenians and as good citizens of whatever country they settled down in their future life.

Mr. John Michael, President of the Armenian College Old Boys' Union, Calcutta, conveyed the appreciation of all Old Boys for the opportunities and facilities they had received in their early school life in this institution which had served many generations of students, and thereafter addressing the boys and girls directly he emphasized to them the importance of paying serious attention to their studies so that they might receive maximum benefit from the facilities available to them

Mr. A. M. Adams spoke on behalf of the parents and guardians, thanking the Institution for all the facilities it had given for the education of our youth. He also gratefully mentioned the role that the College had played in the lives of his elder brother Mr. N. M. Adams and himself. He said that both of them had been fortunate enough to be present at the Centenary Celebrations of the College in 1921, the 150th Anniversary in 1971 and also at the present inaugural functions.

Mr. S. S. Basu, the Vice-Principal, spoke on behalf of the teaching staff. He touched upon the various changes which had taken place in the school curriculum and in the examinations during the past twenty years. Mr. Basu also outlined the importance of aesthetic values and their psychological effect on the students, and stressed too the necessity of having a band of devoted teachers for obtaining the desired academic results. He conveyed the appreciation of the teaching staff, who had the privilege of working under the Managing Committee and the Principal and serving the needs of the Institution.

Master Sako Yeghikian, a senior student of the school, spoke on behalf of the present students and conveyed the gratitude and sincere appreciation of the students to the Managing Committee, Members of the Institution, the Principal and the Teaching Staff, for the care and attention that was extended to the students in equipping them with knowledge and learning for taking up higher studies, either in India or in any overseas countries, or for taking up suitable employment and thereby returning their debt of honour to the community.

Mr. Vahram Papazian, prominent Armenian journalist, author and social worker, spoke in Armenian, addressing specially the boys and girls of both the schools, stressing the role that our national schools had played in educating students in the true national spirit. He encouraged them to concentrate on their lessons and thereby to imbibe that true national spirit of their forefathers. Thereafter, His Grace Archbishop Artag Manoogian spoke on behalf of the Armenian community in Iran, as the majority of the students come from Iran. He stressed the valuable role that the College had played in the lives of scores of ex-pupils who are now taking a prominent part in the community life and participating actively in its life in Tehran and other parts of Iran and also elsewhere.

ARMENIAN SCOUTS IN CALCUTTA

Thereafter, Sir Biren Mookherjee was requested to address the gathering. Sir Biren very courteously thanked the Managing Committee for inviting Lady Mookherjee and himself to participate in this function. In his presidential address he outlined his connections with prominent Armenians in Calcutta and in other parts of the world durin the past sixty years. He wished the Institution well, so that it would continue to serve the needs of the community, and contribute to the intellectual and cultural life in Calcutta. It was known to be the first school in Calcutta to teach English to students collectively, and to have been functioning continuously since its inception.

Mr G. J. Apcar, an old Member of the Institution, delivered the vote of thanks to Sir Biren and Lady Mookherjee for their presence and participation, and also to His Holiness Vazgen I, Supreme Patriarch and Catholicos of All Armenians deputing His Grace Bishop Hmayak Intoyan and Rev. Father Hacob Geokjian to be present at the inaugural functions of the new school building on his behalf, — and to His Grace Archbishop Artag Manoogian, Prelate of the Armenian Diocese of Tehran, — also to the various guests from overseas and from other parts of India, and from Calcutta itself for kindly participating in this function. He specially thanked all managers, past and present and all others, who had worked very hard and extended their full co-operation throughout the period of the construction of the new school building and also thanked the Managing Committee Members of the Institution, the Principal and ohers who had worked hard for organising the inaugural functions.

The walls of the College auditorium were adorned with oil portraits and photographs of His Holiness Vazgen I, Supreme Patriarch and Catholicos of All Armenians, — His late Beatitude Guregh Israelian, Armenian Patriarch of Jerusalem (His Beatitude was an ex-pupil and a teacher at the Armenian College), — the late Sir Paul Chater of Hong Kong, the greatest benefactor of the Armenian Church in Calcutta, from whose grant the school derived the major portion of the funds for construction of the new school building and receives a substantial monthly grant for meeting the running expenses of the Institution. — the late Mr. P. H. Crete, a prominent ex-pupil, who had constructed the swimming pool on the south-west corner of the school compound, — the late J. C. Galstaun one of the most prominent members of the Armenian community of the 20th century who apart from many benefactions, had donated the princely sum of Rs. 30,000/- to the College during the Centenary Celebrations in 1921, — the late D. A. David, the great benefactor and founder of the Davidian Girls' School which he established in 1922, for rendering education to girls of the community, — and the late T. M. Thaddeus, another great benefactor who had left a substantial sum for education and other charities.

The inaugural function terminated at 8.30 p.m. after the rendering of TER KETZO DOO ZHAYS and THE INDIAN NATIONAL ANTHEM.

After the function a special dinner was held in the College dining hall for the boys and girls of the Armenian College and Davidian Girls' School, and the teaching staff of both the schools. His Grace Archbishop Artag Manoogian, His Grace Bishop Hmayak Intoyan, Rev. Father Hacob Geokjian, the Managers of the Armenian College and the Davidian Girls' School, the Principal and other participants at the inaugural function, also attended this special dinner. The boys of the College very thoughtfully garlanded the Managers, Messrs M. S. Marcar, L. Martin and Caro A. Martin, and the Principal, Mr. V. Poladian, as a gesture of appreciation and gratitude to the Institution.

THURSDAY, 3rd APRIL, 1975

A tea party was held at 5 p.m. on the lawns of the Armenian College for guests and members of the community. Fortunately the weather was favourable with a cool evening breeze blowing into one's face. Cakes and Armenian cookies were served with tea and enjoyed by everyone. Thereafter the annual combined concert of the Armenian College and Davidian Girls' School was held at the College auditorium at 6.30 p.m. There was a variety programme consisting of various items in Armenian, English, Bengali, and Persian, rendered by the boys and girls of the Armenian College and Davidian Girls' School, together with several musical items and the playing of musical instruments. The audience were very pleased and appreciated all the efforts made by the Principal and staff in organising the enjoyable concert.

SUNDAY, 6th APRIL, 1975

A Requiem Service was held after Divine Liturgy at the Armenian Holy Church of Nazareth in memory of and for the repose of the soul of Astwasatoor Mooradkhan, the original founder of the Armenian College, around his tombstone, in the compound of the Armenian Church. His Grace Archbishop Artag Manoogian officiated at the special service and in the course of his address expressed the gratitude of the entire community and of the students. He offered prayers for the memory of Astwasatoor Mooradkhan and all the other benefactors for rendering a great service to the nation by their noble conception of establishing the Armenian School in Calcutta to preserve and protect the national language and culture on these distant shores. After the Requiem and Thanksgiving Service the congregation assembled in the Parochial Hall and partook of tea, coffee and refreshments. They also had an opportunity of meeting some of the overseas visitors.

MONDAY, 7th APRIL, 1975

A farewell luncheon was organised by the Managers of the Armenian College in the school in honour of His Grace Archbishop Artag Manoogian, the Prelate of the Armenian Diocese of Tehran, who had come specially to participate in the inauguration of the new school building on the invitation of the Managing Committee and Members of the Institution as the majority of the students come from Iran.

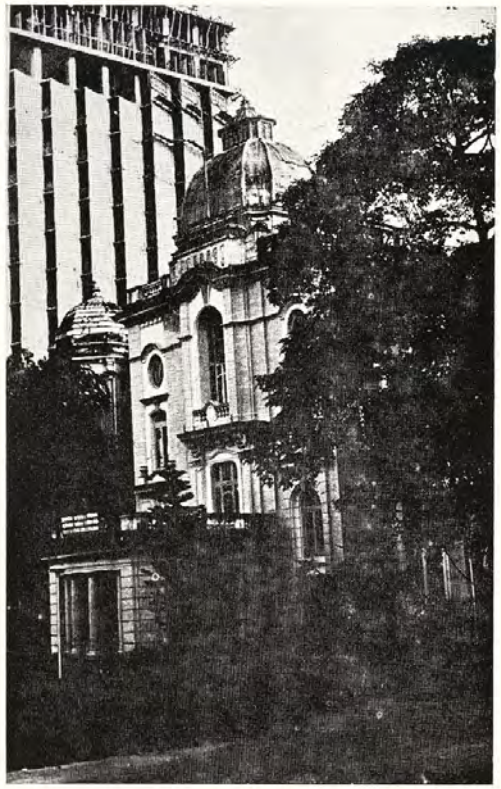

The Rev. Father Hacob Geokjian, Officiating Clergyman of the Armenian Church in Calcutta, — Messrs. N. M. Adams and J. D. Arathoon, Managers of the Davidian Girls' School, — Mr. L. Martin, Warden of the Armenian Church, — Mr. V. Poladian, Principal of the Armenian College and other guests were present at the farewell luncheon. As His Grace was leaving for Tehran via Bombay the same evening, the farewell luncheon was utilised for exchange of views on various problems and questions pertaining to the admission of students from Iran. His Grace congratulated the Managers of the Armenian College and the Davidian Girls' School for the excellent work that they were doing and also conveyed his appreciation to Mr. V. Poladian, the Principal, and Rev. Father Hacob Geokjian, the Officiating Clergyman of the Armenian Church in Calcutta.

On behalf of the managers and the members of the Institution, Mr. Caro A. Martin thanked His Grace for accepting their invitation to come from Iran and participate in the inaugural functions, and also for the interest that His Grace was taking in the school and other community institutions, which was a sourse of additional encouragement and inspiration to all concerned. Mr. Martin wished His Grace bon-voyage and happy landing, and stated that they would keep in touch with His Grace by correspondence so that the interest of the Institution and the students from Iran could be pursued further and maintained.

There was a suggestion by one of the members of the Institution to arrange for taking a 8/16mm movie film of all the functions on the historic occasion of the inauguration of the new school building, which could subsequently be shown in India and other overseas centres where there are many old boys and others interested in the College who were unable to be personally present. Unfortunately this could not be arranged due to an irregular power supply and the likelihood of a breakdown which is not uncommon in Calcutta these days. However, photographs have been taken during the various functions and some of the important ones will be used when publishing the comprehensive illustrated brochure in the near future.

The week-long celebrations connected with the inauguration of the new school building on the occasion of the FOUNDERS DAY and THE 154th ANNIVERSARY of the College drew to a conclusion on a happy note, and thus another milestone was passed in the long and interesting history of this outstanding community institution which has served generations of students and whose ex-pupils are now settled in practically all countries and continents.

The accompanying photographs are of the edifices in Calcutta built early in this century by prominent Armenian merchants, particularly by the late Mr. J. C. Galstaun, Mr. A. Stephen, Mr. T. M. Thaddeus and Mr. C. L. Phillips. Though the Armenian architects and builders are no more, these palatial edifices remain a fitting tribute to them.

ARMENIANS IN SINGAPORE

The Armenian Church of St. Gregory The Illuminator in Singapore

Raffles Hotel was built by them; and Singapore's national flower, the Vanda Miss Joaquim, was named after one. Singapore's oldest church, dated 1835, was also built by them, and behind the church, a street takes their name.

If you haven't guessed it by now, "they" are the Armeninans, the tenacious people hailing from Armenia — now a republic of the U.S.S.R. — whose contribution to Singapore's history outweighs their numbers.

Last year during the month of February, the Armenian Apostolic Church of St. Gregory opened its freshly-painted doors and made one of its rare public appearances. Members of the public were invited to attend the services. During the week, two-and-a-half year old Vonique Baghramian, the daughter of an Armenian American couple, was christened in the church by Rev. H. Gucktchian of Calcutta. The second daughter, Sarah Baghramian, was christened by Rev. A. Mirzaian of Sydney on 5th June, 1982.

According to church records, the last christening by a true Armenian clergyman was almost exactly 106 years ago, on September 12, 1876. But it has taken Arshak Galstaun — the 69 year old dapper doyen of the tiny Armenian community here, and president of the Board of Trustees of the church — four years, a lot of letters and immigration paperwork to arrange the historic visits of Rev. H. Guektchian, John Martin, and archdeacon of the church, and organist Serosh Haroutunian from Calcutta. Galstaun can't quite remember the last time an Armenian conducted a service in the church. Until World War II, there was a resident priest serving the small but prosperous community. After the war arrangements with the Australian community for periodic visits by a clergyman gradually died out as the community dwindled in numbers. The church is now used by the Anglicans for classes and evensong. Since the Vanda Miss Joaquim was named Singapore's national flower, Galstaun says, interest in the community has revived. A businessman dealing in reptile skins and now on the verge of retirement (arranging the service may be considered his swansong), Galstaun arrived in Singapore in 1937 and was interned in Changi. The self-appointed keeper of the church records — which date back to 1821 — he lovingly nurses the faded, fragile pages, which were recently restored and rebound by the National Archives. He also keeps the church's silver, which dates from as early as 1842.

But what were the Armenians doing in Singapore? Armenia's tragedy has been its unfortunate geographic position: A buffer-state lying between Europe and Asia on the path of warring and competing empires, including the Russians, Greeks, Persians, Arabs and Turks. Such domestic troubles have caused Armenians to wander over the globe in search of a better life. Many moved eastward, first to Iran, then to India, Singapore and, more recently, to Australia. Armenians were most probably in Singapore even before the British arrived in 1819. By the 1820's there were three Armenian firms here trading with Malacca. The community — never exceeding several hundred heads — was wealthy and influential in its heyday 75 to 100 years ago. Members owned prime real estate and did well in business. Two of the best remembered families today are the Joaquims and the Sarkies.

The Raffles Hotel and the Eastern and Oriental in Penang owe their start to the enterprise of the three Armenian Sarkies brothers; Arshak, Aviet and Tigran. When the hotel fell on hard times in the 1930's the Sarkies took a loan from the church. To this day, the church holds about 9,110 shares in the Raffles Hotel as part compensation for the $17,000 loan. This cannot be tapped, however, and it is held in trust by the Chartered Bank, yielding a small premium every year that goes towards maintaining the church.

Agnes Joaquim, who discovered the orchid that has become our national flower, has had her past carefully reconstructed in recent months; Her tomb is now located among those in the church graveyard, her family tree has been published, and her 89 year old nephew brought to Singapore from Australia by the Singapore Tourist Promotion Board.

Today, the community stands at just over a dozen. Several of them are Armenian Americans or Armenian Australians doing stints as expats here, like Citibank vice-president John Carapiet and company director Art Baghramian. Sydney has a large community and about 600,000 Armenians have settled in the U.S. The once large Calcutta community has dwindled considerably; many of the young ones have moved to Australia. The community still funds a school, a church and welfare projects there. Wherever they are, the Armenians have remained intensly traditional. Wherever the Armenians have settled, their first thought has been to build a church, says Galstaun. It is the equivalent of the British or European Club. Armenian churches dot the map from Bombay and Madras to Surabaya and Sydney.

The Armenians were among the earliest to be converted to Christianity in the 4th Century by St. Gregory, "the Illuminator", to whom the church in Singapore is dedicated.

Rare service — The tiny community here began worshipping together in a small chapel or rented room at John Little's Building in Raffles Place from as early as 1821. The small core of about 12 families appealed in the early 1830's to their compatriots in India, Indonesia and Hong Kong, and also to English and Chinese merchants in Singapore for funds to build the kind of church they wanted. Their first request for the land facing the Esplanade at the foot of Government Hill was refused. They then sent in a second request for the lot lying at the Botanic Gardens facing the public road called "The Hill Street". The church is one of the finest designs of Singapore's first architect, George D. Coleman, who arrived here in 1826. It was designed in 1834 for a fee of $400. The main structure of the church is a circle superimposed on a square plan with projecting square porticos on all four sides, There are 12 wooden pews facing the unsigned painting of the Last Supper hanging over the altar. No statues look on, for these are forbidden in Armenian churches. Sunday's service was, of course, conducted in classical Armenian. Word of the event was spread through the small Armenian community in the Far East and a handful of visitors from other neighbouring countries flew in to attend this rare church service.

Speech delivered by Mr. Arshak C. Galstaun on the 7th April, 1982 at the Century Park Sheraton Hotel, Singapore, at the Times Books International launching of the book "A JOY FOREVER" on Singapore's national flower by Dr. Teoh Eng Soon.

Mr. Koh, Dr. Teoh, Ladies and Gentlemen,

Thank you Mr. Koh for giving me this honour and privilege of speaking on this important occasion on the publication of a delightful book written by Dr. Teoh Eng Soon about the VANDA MISS JOAQUIM orchid.

We are a young and vibrant nation pulsating with profits and progress. In this state of rush and scurry, we should go back to the origins of what we are and what we have. It is therefore fitting, and pertinent, that I should say a few words as to how the Joaquim family came to be in Singapore or how the flower was created.

Long before the European colonisers, Armenians were all over the near and Far East as far as Harbin, engaged in trading activities. And very successfully too.

Agnes' father, Parsegh Hovagyem (Basil Joaquim) came from the trading colony in Madras. Agnes' mother Urughlee Zacharian (Urelia Zachariah) was herself born in Singapore in 1828 only 9 years after its founding and Agnes' maternal grandfather, Essai Zacharian (Isaiah Zachariah) was a prominent merchant from the Calcutta community and one of the 37 founder members of the Singapore Chamber of Commerce and the Armenian Church.

The Joaquims had twelve children; Agnes was the second. We have records of the births and baptisms of eleven of them in our church books; I have been unable to find the record of the birth of one of the twelve children Robert.

We have also the record of the marriage of Agnes' parents in our Church on the 17th February, 1852.

The Joaquim's first born, Nerses, was born on the 2nd December, 1852; then came Agnes on the 7th April, 1854.

Basil Joaquim was a successful diamond merchant. He built a large house at Narcis Street at Tanjong Pagar, which was named after his first born, Nerses. This street disappeared a few years ago in the course of development.

Three of her brothers were prominent barristers-at-law and one in particular, Joaquim (Joe) an F.R.G.S., and the Historical Deputy Grand Master of the Eastern Archipelago Masonic Lodge. I believe he was instrumental in founding Braddel Brothers. One of the other brothers started Joachim & Co. in Kuala Lumpur. Both legal firms and are both still living.

I met the 'baby' of the Joaquim family, Sarah, before and after the war when she was an old spinster. If Agnes was as gracicious, as kind, and a gentle a lady as Sarah, then she must have been a wonderful person. Their 88-year-old nephew, Basil Johannes of Perth, has told me that Agnes was the split image of her sister, Regina, who was his mother. I have a copy of the wedding photograph of Regina and her husband, Eleazar, reproduced in this book. Unfortunately, I have been unable to trace anyone with a photograph of Agnes, even though I have enquired of a number of their descendants, in Singapore, London, Holland and Australia.

I got involved in researching the story of Miss Agnes as I was irritated by articles in the papers which always described the flower but never mentioned who its creator was. Sarah told me that the flower was named after her, hence, I rushed into print with a letter to the editor saying that I knew Agnes, thinking that she was Sarah. However, in talking to the news editor of the Sunday Nation one day, she told me that they had a letter from Basil Johannes about Agnes and the flower. This amazed me because, God forbid, I thought that Basil had passed away three years earlier. In actual fact, it was his wife who had passed away. Through friends in Sydney, I traced and phoned Basil in Perth and had long conversation with him. Fortunately, at age 88, he was very lucid and clear in his thoughts, although some of his recollections and statements turned out to be inconsistent with my researches.

The name "Agnes" puzzled me as it is not an Armenian name and I could not relate it to any, even after phoning Armenian literary experts in Sydney. It was only after I found her tombstone in our Church grounds and read both the Armenian and English inscriptions that the facts became known.

Some years ago, the graves at the Bukit Timah Christian Cemetery were removed by the Government to Choa Chu Kang. At that time, we had a very enthusiastic Armenian social worker from America, Mr. Leon Balian, posted here, who went through the cemetery and took possession of all the Armenian tombstones he could find and brought them to our Church. You will, therefore, find a lot of these in our Church grounds, even though there are no graves at all.

One day, my dull wits were suddenly awakened at the thought that although I had had a look at most of the tombstones in the Church grounds, I had not had a proper look, and that there might be one in a million chance that Agnes' might be there. I rushed there and to my amazement and delight I found hers with inscriptions both in Armenian and English, with the added bonus of those of her father, mother and three brothers.

I had missed out the record of her birth in our Church registers, so I went through again and with "Ashghen" as her real name, I found it. Incidentally, she was named after her grandmother and our first Christian Queen in the 4th century.

At one time the Church had a drape, knitted by Agnes, which I gave to Basil Johannes as it rightly belonged to his family, but, unfortunately, he cremated this with the body of his wife, as she and Agnes had been very close.

Agnes was very religious and according to Basil, was always involved in Church affairs. Her other passion was gardening, as recorded by Ridley, the curator of the Botanical Gardens at the time and 'father' of the rubber industry.

Basil has told me and others that Agnes did not actually breed the Vanda Miss Joaquim but that she found it in a clump of bamboo in her garden. Basil was born in 1893, the year the flower was registered by Ridley; Agnes died when Basil was six. Basil's niece, Hazel, daughter of his older brother Johnny, tells me that her father and his sister Ripsy D'Almeida (nicknamed Tootoo), had often said that Agnes crossbred the orchid herself. This is borne out by the written record of Ridley in the "GARDENERS' CHRONICLE" of 24th June, 1893, page 740, which reads as follows:-

> "A few years ago, Miss Joaquim, a lady residing in Singapore, well known for her success as a horticulturist, succeeded in crossing the Vanda Hookeriana and the Vanda Teres, two plants cultivated in almost every garden in Singapore. Unfortunately, no record was kept as to which was used as the male. The result has now appeared in the the form of a very beautiful plant quite intermediate between the two species, and as I cannot find any record of this cross having been made before, I describe it as herewith."

That she did not suddenly find the flower in her garden but had crossbred it herself is quite clear from Ridley's record. Further whilst it was registered only in 1893, Ridley says that Agnes had created the crossbred many years before; that she was well known as a horticulturist and that she had not kept a record as to which was used as the male. So, she must have experimented.

I am told that it would be very unlikely that Miss Joaquim crossbred the hybrid in the absence of the asymbiotic flask culture method of germinating seeds which came to be used long after her. I am not a horticulturist and I have no answer to this, excepting to state that Ridley's account is quite categorical. He was a man of science and unlikely to record what was not true. With due respect, I would myself take the written record of a scientist rather than the hearsay stories of others about 90 years after the event.

The comparisons that readily come to mind are to say that medicine men of old could not cure since they had no training in medicine and science as we know them today or that the Egyptians could not have built the inspiring pyramids because they had no hydraulic lifts, cranes, forklifts and modern tools 3000 years ago to fashion and lift the colossal pieces of rock hundreds of feet, one on top of the other. I think we should therefore give credit to Miss Joaquim for the years of hard work and effort she put in creating the magnificent VANDA MISS JOAQUIM, as beautiful as we hear she was herself, and from which numerous hybrids have been possible.

Who knows? It is possible that like the Egyptians, she had discovered a way to crossbreed orchids but that she took the secret to her grave. However, this is merely my own view. I am throwing it to the winds and experts for further research and investigation.

Thank you once again, Mr. Koh, for allowing me this privilege of speaking on this occasion. I congratulate Dr. Teoh for and wish him much success with a magnificent book well researched and well written and which I am sure will forever, like the flower, be a joy to the many who read it.

ARTISTS AND ENTERTAINERS

Interview with Manuel, International Entertainer

He has an infectious smile and his eyes, how they capture you as does his whole personality, he is himself, no one else, the incomparable Manuel.

I first heard of him several years ago when he was appearing in New York at the Persian Room of the Plaza Hotel. Who was Manuel? I thought him to be Spanish at first until I read Earl Wilson's column and a most favourable review in the New Yorker magazine. He is not only an Armenian but an ambassador of all Armenians, as this internationally acclaimed song stylist constantly reminds his audiences.

After fifteen years in show business he never tires of pleasing his listeners. He loves his work. He is happiest when he is entertaining . . . all kinds of audiences. "Naturally I relate more to Armenian audiences since we feel the same way; there is a oneness in the group," he said.

As to his preference for appearing in movies or giving concerts, he didn't hesitate to say, "I prefer live audiences, but to be realistic, movies are a medium for me to communicate with audiences I cannot reach . . . there is more exposure in movies."

Manuel has made three Armenian movies on the West Coast, "Sons of Sassoun", "Promise of Love", and "Tears of Happiness" as well as several American movies, most recently appearing in "The Pirate" a made-for-TV movie which was aired in early December.

He flew into Providence from a whirlwind concert tour which is typical of his lifestyle — Sydney and Melbourne, Australia, to Rio De Janeiro, Buenos Aires, Toronto and Montreal, where he played to mixed audiences.

His only appearance on the East Coast during the tour was a concert at the Columbus Theatre in Providence, R.I., on Sunday afternoon, December 17, sponsored by the Armenian Radio Hour, Producer-Director Russel Gasparian. He captivated the crowd with a mixture of Armenian and Continental song styles along with his relaxed chatter, both Armenian and English, between songs. Backing him were musicians from the Warwick Musical Theatre Orchestra.

To the audience he always stressed that we Armenians must maintain our rich heritage by teaching our youngsters their mother tongue, by encouraging them to go to church and to be become involved in Armenian affairs. "My desire is to see Armenians united together in our first home which is the Church and it is there that we will maintain our ancient culture and traditions."

Manuel, international entertainer

Manuel was born in Beirut and first started singing when he was fourteen. He went to Paris to study acting and staging and at this time of his life it was more of a hobby than a career. The first serious step to stardom came when he won first prize singing on a television program in Lebanon. His career was later boosted following his success at an International Music Festival in Athens, Greece, where he captured first prize.

During 1967-68 he went to Yerevan, Armenia, where he gave 75 concerts playing before packed houses. He was scheduled for more which he rejected because of time.

As to my leading question whether there was a special woman in his life, he immediately replied, "My Mother, of course. I'm still looking for that someone special . . ." I'm sure when he finds her there'll be no doubt.

When he isn't travelling around the world and making movies he enjoys spending time with his family. He has relatives in Los Angeles, where he makes his home. If he can take the time, he will go fishing or horseback riding.

When I questioned him about Beirut and his mother and father who still live there, I could see the pain in his eyes. He has returned recently to see them as well as a married brother and his niece and nephew.

"When you see a part of your life demolished, it saddens you and you know you can never get it back. I thank God my parents' home was not touched, but my friends are suffering." Then he became very serious. "I pray peace will come, but my prayers will not be enough . . . if I could go there and and sing without stopping to help bring about peace I would do it, but I know that still will not be enough . . . unfortunately man as he is today is working more for destruction."

We ended the interview in a pensive mood. I asked about his goals for the future. "What else? To make people happy. God has touched me and given me a talent to use and I pray every night and thank God because I am a happy man. He gave me what I wanted . . . I have everything."

MR. GEORGE DONIKIAN

"It's pronounced like 'Don' and 'Ian' with an 'eek" in the middle."

George Donikian's grandfather left Armenia in the 1920's and both his parents were born in Athens. His father, a master mechanic, came to Australia in 1949, and George's mother followed her husband a year later. George was born in the closing days of 1951, and comments that he was presumably too impatient to wait for the New Year.

The Donikian family lived in Sydney's Eastern Suburbs, where Donikian Snr. ran a service station, and George was educated at South Sydney Boys' High School — "They were a great bunch of blokes there." After high school, he spent a year and a half trying to follow in father's footsteps in a mechanical engineering course, until he realised that it wasn't his scene.

He was about to go overseas for a visit to Greece — he still hasn't been there — when a friend persuaded him to do a course in radio announcing. With many misgivings, he did the course, sent off audition tapes — and landed an announcer's job in Cairns.

Mr. George Donikian

Almost two years later, George decided to move south again, and managed to get a job at 2WL in Wollongong — a move to a major provincial station by-passing the more usual years of apprenticeship in the rural areas.

His Wollongong time slot was the drive-time 3 p.m.- 7 p.m. in which, he says, re really enjoyed himself.

In 1979, he moved to Sydney's 2WS to handle the midnight to dawn session.

But for a shoulder injury, George might have been an international sports star. He played grade soccer and cricket in his mid-teens, and is also keen on golf and tennis — in fact, any ball sports.

And last year he married "a truly lovely lady" whom he had known for more than ten years: "I suddenly realised that if I didn't grab Athena then, someone else would."

George appears on Channel 0/28 as newsreader.

MR. PETER RUSH

Peter Rush, a New Zealander, began painting with oils at the age of seven.

He had his first one-man exhibition at the age of nineteen. He migrated to Australia in 1978 and, since settling in Sydney, has won several important art prizes. He is a student of the Julian Ashton Art School and an exhibiting member of the Royal North Sydney Art Society.

Recently, using a photograph, he painted a very beautiful picture of mount Ararat for presentation to Father Mirzaian whose home it now graces.

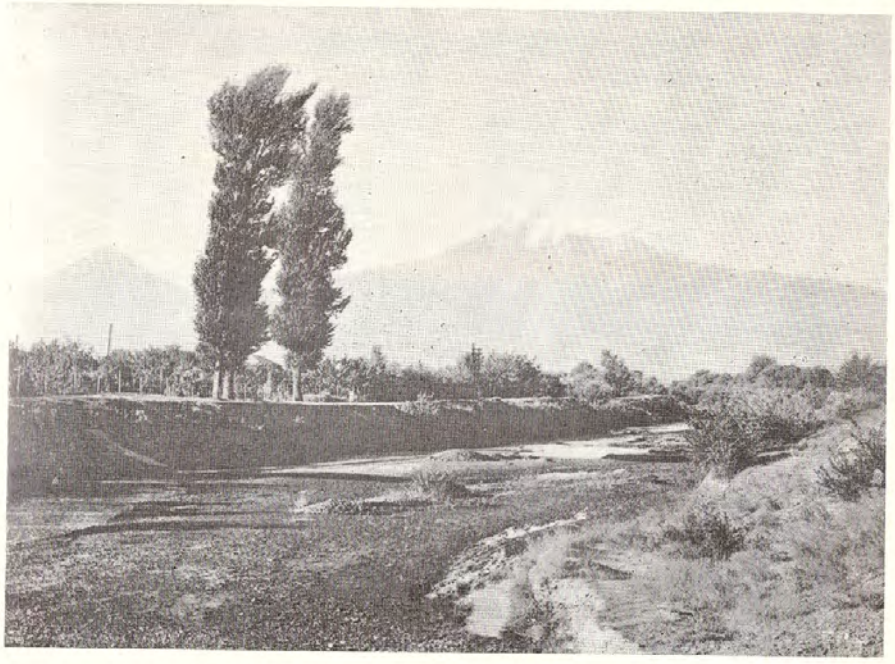

Mr. Rush is probably the first artist and an exhibiting member in Australia to make a painting of Mount Ararat.

EAST-WEST CHURCHES' ASSOCIATION

The East-West Churches' Association is a N.S.W. organisation of individual members of various churches who meet together once a month in Wesley College chapel of the University of Sydney for the specific purpose of learning about the liturgy and traditions of churches other than their own. The patron of the society is the Rt. Rev. Graham Delbridge, Anglican Bishop of Gippsland; the chairman is Prof. W. H. Newell of the department of anthropology of the University of Sydney, the vice-chairman is the Rev. Gary Rawson (Catholic), the secretary is Miss Barbara Lewis (Catholic) and the treasurer is Mr. Sarkis Martin (Armenian Apostolic). Since its foundation two years ago it has organised two retreats. The first retreat had as its theme the psalms in worship; and the second retreat was on prayer in Orthodox, Anglican and Catholic traditions. A small library has been established and regular monthly meetings have been held. Among other speakers we have had the privilege of being addressed by His Grace, Archbishop Stylianos on the movement towards church unity in the Greek Orthodox/Anglican discussions.

The association is a purely New South Wales society but receives guidance and help from the Society of St. Alban and St. Sergius and from the Keston College Association in England. The society is also especially concerned with church members in the Far East and receives literature from the China Graduate School of Theology in Hong Kong.

The members of the Association feel very strongly that members of churches in Sydney have very little understanding of the problems and difficulties of churches other than their own in Sydney and that an association such as this has an important part to play in strengthening church life in N.S.W. We welcome new members into the society.

THE WILLOUGHBY MINISTERS' FRATERNAL

Our local Minister's Fraternal known as the Willoughby Ministers' Fraternal is open to all Ministers serving our Lord Jesus Christ in the Willoughby Municipality.

Ministers from the Anglican, Armenian, Baptist, Churches of Christ, Presbyterian and Uniting Churches and the Salvation Army and at times the Catholic Church meet monthly to discuss and arrange activities of a united nature. Combined Missions have been arranged as well as the screening of films, such as the Francis Schaeffer films and combined Christmas Carol Services etc.

While we come from different traditions and backgrounds we are all one in Christ seeking in our individual Churches and collectively as the body of Christ to proclaim the Gospel of our Lord and Saviour and to extend His Kingdom in the spirit of unity.

ORGANISATIONS AND ACTIVITIES
THE ARMENIAN CULTURAL SOCIETY

THE OPENING OF THE ARMENIAN CULTURAL CENTRE
259 Penshurst Street, Willoughby, N.S.W. 2068

A major event for Sydney's Armenian community took place on Saturday, 22nd March, 1980, at the opening of the Armenian Cultural Centre. More than 1800 Armenians came together for the event, accommodated under a huge tent, dressed for the occasion. The Premier of the State of New South Wales, the Hon. N. Wran, arrived for the opening and greeting him were representatives of the Armenian Cultural Society, the Armenian Relief Society and the sporting organisation, Homenetmen, the three associations forming the Armenian Cultural Centre committee.

In his welcoming speech, Mr. Haig Avakian, President of the A.C.C. committee, thanked his guests which included the Premier, the Mayor of Willoughby, Ald. Noel Reidy, Archbishop Karekin Kazandjian, Prelate for Australia and New Zealand of the Armenian Apostolic Church, Senator Peter Baume, Government Whip in the Senate, Mr. E. Britt, Member for Willoughby in the N.S.W. Legislative Assembly, Mr. W. Jegorow, President of Ethnic Affairs Federal Council, Dr. Paulo Totaro, Chairman of N.S.W. Ethnic Affairs Commission, the Police Inspector of Chatswood, the Director of Special Broadcasting Service and various representatives of other Armenian Churches and organisations. The Centre came about at an expense of $250,000, not counting the honorary labor donated by a variety of Armenian tradesmen in their respective field. It is a unique Centre in Australia as well as being the first of its kind. In his speech, Mr. Avakian emphasised that this was only a beginning and many tasks lay ahead. The Centre requires furnishings and he asked for a combined effort to provide these facilities. The Centre will serve the atmosphere for developing the Armenian youth in the various fields of our culture.

Mr. H. Avakian, The Hon. N. K. Wran, Q.C., M.P., and Mr. E. Vesmadian

In his opening address the Premier, Mr. N. Wran, spoke of the ancient history and profound culture of the Armenian people and expressed satisfaction that a great number of the Armenian community had chosen to reside in New South Wales, and he donated $4,000 (on behalf of the State) towards the library of the A.C.C., amongst wild cheers of joy from the crowd. His Grace, Bishop Kazandjian, delivered his prayer and in his speech stated that Armenians have not come to Australia with the thought of what this country can give to them but rather what the Armenians can give to Australia.

Later on in the night in the main hall, the guests were treated to Armenian folkloric dances. Soft drinks, beer and whisky were flowing to the public at no cost while the food, smorgasbord style, nicely decorated, was served by the ladies of the Armenian Relief Society.

The evening proceeded in a friendly and joyful atmosphere while donations were collected and announced on the p.a. system. Close to $37,500 was collected in donations. A band provided the necessary colourful background. As Armenians, we are proud of such a building. More or less, it is our Embassy. Hereunder follows the speech made by the President of the Armenian Cultural Centre, Mr. H. Avakian.

Mr. Premier, Mr. Mayor, Your Grace, Senator Baume, Mr. Britt, reverend fathers, distinguished guests, ladies and gentlemen:

It is not without emotion and some pride that I speak these few words to welcome you here tonight on behalf of the sponsoring Societies, the Armenian Cultural Society, the Armenian Relief Society and the Armenian Union of Physical Culture and Scouting "Homenetmen" as well as my colleagues of the Committee of the Armenian Cultural Centre.

With emotion, because this is a memorable event after many years of determined and relentless work from which we have fulfilled one of our principal aims and we feel the satisfaction of an accomplishment.

With pride, because, each one of our members and the community at large has contributed materially, physically and morally for the establishment of this Centre, the first in Australia, and this moment is the culmination of our common efforts.

Our special thanks to you, Mr. Premier for having honoured our community in accepting the invitation to open our Cultural Centre. I welcome the presence of our popular Mayor, Ald. Noel Reidy and Mrs. Reidy, His Grace Archbishop Karekin Kazandjian, Prelate for Australia and New Zealand of the Armenian Apostolic Church, Senator Peter Baume and Mrs. Baume, Mr. Eddie Britt, Member for Willoughby in the N.S.W. Legislative Assembly and Mrs. Britt, heads and members of the clergy of Armenian Churches and other distinguished guests who will be introduced to you later in the evening.

It is gratifying for me to welcome also the representatives of the Councils of Armenian Churches and other sister organisations — Armenian General Benevolent Union, Armenian Catholic Benevolent Society, Austral-Armenian Association, Armenian Students Association, University Graduates Society, the Near-East Society and Armenian Historical Society.

This is indeed a memorable occasion for our community.

But let us not be carried away in our enthusiasm. This is only a beginning and many tasks lie ahead of us. The Centre requires furnishings and furniture for the main hall, the library and second floor meeting rooms, utensils for the kitchen and other essential items. We must continue to combine our efforts to provide these facilities.

The dominant purpose of this Centre is the preservation and fostering of centuries old Armenian rich culture, specially in the coming generations. It will serve this purpose by providing the facilities and the necessary atmosphere for developing in our youth their talents in the various fields of culture, of which Armenians are so renowned.

In this multi-cultural society, let us grow and blossom the flowers of our culture, different in colour and shade and thus contribute to the beautiful cultural garden that is Australia.

Thank you, ladies and gentlemen, for coming along tonight.

THE OPENING OF THE ARMENIAN COMMUNITY CENTRE
5 Grattan Crescent, Frenchs Forest, N.S.W. 2086

At long last the opening of the Armenian Community Centre became a reality. It was celebrated on 27th March, 1982 in the company of over 500 guests, including prominent Federal and State Officials, clerical personalities, representatives of various Armenian organisations, other distinguished guests and members of the Association.

The opening ceremony was conducted under the auspices of Hon. Eric L. Bedford, Minister for Planning and Environment N.S.W. and patronage of His Grace Bishop Aghan Baliozian, Primate of the Armenian Apostolic Church in Australia and N.Z. The occasion was also honoured by the presence of Mr. Arshak and Mrs. Sophie Galstaun, dedicated members and supporters of the Association, by a special trip from Singapore. The Master of Ceremonies was Mr. N. Cholakyan.

Following the President Mr. Armen Apcar's opening speech, the Minister, Hon. Eric Bedford and Mrs. Bedford were invited onto the stage for the official ceremony. The Minister expressed his great admiration of the magnificent achievement and then unveiled the plague inscribed with his name for opening of the Centre. There was a tremendous response of applause and excitement on that momentous event.

The Hon. Eric L. Bedford, Minister for Planning & Environment N.S.W., unveiling the plague inscribed with his name for opening the centre.

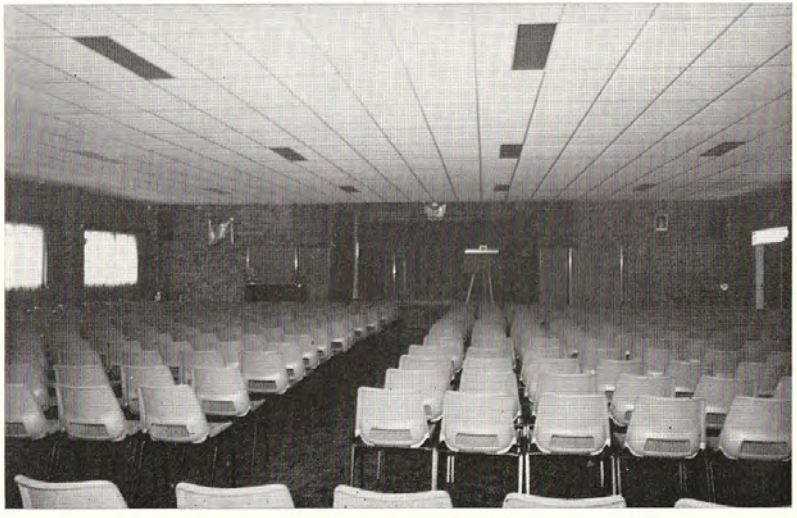

The ceremony continued with further speeches, Mr. John Spender, Q.C., M.P., Federal Member of North Sydney, commented on the relentless determination of the Association and success of its aspirations. Mr. Arshak Galstaun highlighted the arduous task involved in achieving an impossible dream and contributed further $10,000 (in addition to previous $30,000) as a token of his and his wife's appreciation of the honour bestowed on them. Mr. Leon Shohmelian spoke in Armenian on the importance of the occasion and purpose of the Centre. Rev. Father Aramais Mirzaian humourous speech on the success of the project caused great amusement to the guests. Finally, His Grace Bishop Aghan Baliozian concluded the ceremony with his blessings and prayer for future welfare of the Centre.

In between the speeches the guests were entertained by the Association's folk dance group in their gorgeous costumes, also by a musical ensemble, and solo and group singers. Mrs. Bedford and other ladies, who had contributed in various ways to the success of the evening, were presented with bouquet of flowers in appreciation of their work. Thereafter, refreshments and snacks were served in the lower hall to the enjoyment of the guests.

It was a great day to be remembered for posterity.

SPEECH MADE BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE AUSTRAL-ARMENIAN ASSOCIATION, MR. A. O. APCAR

Hon. Minister Bedford and Mrs. Bedford, Your Grace Bishop Baliozian, Rev. Father, Distinguished guests, Ladies and Gentlemen.

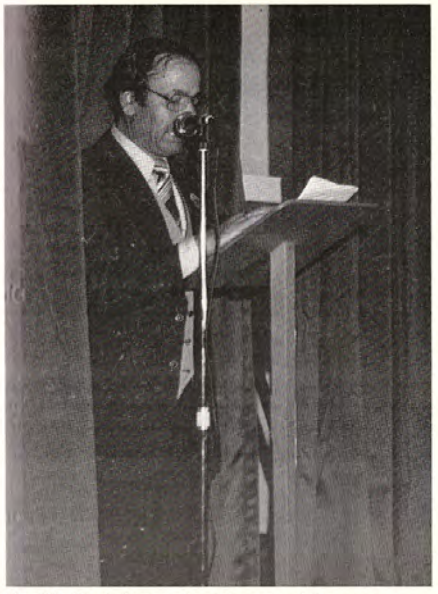

On behalf of the Trustees and the Management Committee, it is my great pleasure and privilege to welcome you to this memorable occasion of the opening of our Armenian Community Centre. I thank you for joining us to celebrate this great event.

I shall not attempt to indulge in the history of the Association and its achievements in the past. This information is briefly conveyed to you in the leaflets in your hands. Sufficient to say that in its short existence it has striven with determination and purpose to reach its ultimate goal for fulfilment of its aims and objectives. That achievement today is not only for the welfare of the Armenian Community but also a moral victory against all odds and upheavals the Association had to surmount.

Today the Association has reached the pinacle of its success by presenting this magnificent building to the Armenian Community to serve as a centre for social and cultural activities and as a cradle for fulfilment of the aspiration of our children. Today we are celebrating an achievement that will go down in the annals of the Armenian history

Mr. A. O. Apcar, President of the Austral-Armenian Association

Mr. N. Cholakyan, the Master of Ceremonies

Father A. Mirzaian

in Australia as a milestone to be cherished and remembered for all time.

The task was heavy and in its initial stage appeared almost impossible but for the goodwill and generosity of our people and friends of Armenians. First of all, therefore, we must thank the N.S.W. Government for allocating a Crown land and its generosity also for financial assistance towards the cost of the building.

In 1978, although we had acquired the land, the prospects of raising funds were desperately wanting and we almost abandoned the idea of building when our good friends and staunch supporters of the Association, Arshak and Sophie Galstaun, came to our rescue by a donation of a substantial sum to be followed by more with the progress of the building. As a token of appreciation this auditorium is dedicated to Sophie.

Galstaun's initial contribution started the ball rolling. Thereafter other well wishers came forward with great enthusiasm and we were in business.

We have acknowledged all donations, big and small, with deep gratitude as progressively published in our "Tzain" magazine. It would be literally impossible to repeat their names tonight. However, without any intent of discrimination I would like to mention the names of a few major supporters for their donations and gifts of equipment like Thomassians, Amrerkhanians. Kocharians, Mansurs, Avakians and our Australian friends, Spies family, who are all present here tonight. Notable overseas contributions have been from St. Sarkies Charitable Trust, London, Gulbenkian Foundation, Lisbon and legacy of the late Stephen Hovsep, Bangkok.

In the success of our fund raising, Rev. Father A. Mirzaian has played an important role. His dedication and invaluable work for the cause of the Association are worthy of highest praise. In our moments of despair his words "God will help" have been our greatest moral support.

We also extend our thanks to Mr. George Johns, our architect, for his honorary contribution in preparing the plans of the building and his constant guidance and supervision throughout the construction of the building.

Last of all but not the least, we wish to thank the Committee Members and all others for their tremendous help in connection with the building, viz, painting, digging, cleaning, fixing etc., not to forget, of course, the Ladies Auxiliary and their friends whose indomitable spirit and gallant work have contributed to the success of tonight's ceremony.

As you all are aware, the official opening of the Centre tonight is being conducted under the auspices of the Hon. Eric Bedford, Minister for Planning and Environment N.S.W. and the patronage of His Grace, Bishop Aghan Baliozian, the Prelate of the Armenian Apostolic Church in Australia and N.Z. Our humble thanks to them for acceptance of our invitation to do us this great honour.

Amongst our other distinguished guests we have our prominent Australian friends, Mr. and Mrs. John Spender, Federal M.P., Mr. and Mrs. Ian Spies, as mentioned earlier, Mr. H. Maddrell, our Bank Manager. Mr. and Mrs. George Donikian, (T.V. personality) as well as the executive members of our neighbour ethnic organisations, and Police Department. Apologies from Mr. Peter Collins, State M.P. and Mr. Evan Williams, Director of Cultural Activities who were unable to attend, but have sent messages of good wishes. We have also the representatives of the Armenian Church Diocese and Council, Armenian Catholic Church, Armenian Evanglical Congregational Church, Armenian Cultural Society, Armenian Relief Society, Armenian Homemen Sports Club, Armenian National Committee, Armenian General Benevolent Union, Armenian Social and Sports Club, Armenian Rest Home Association, Armenian Historical Society, Armenian Near-East Society, Ararad Enterprises, Ararat Sports Club, Armenian Students Association and Armenion University Graduates Association.

We thank them for honouring us with their presence. We have now reached the ceremonial part of the opening of the Centre which is to be performed by the Hon. Minister Eric Bedford. I am sure that he, with his charming wife, who are both well known to the Armenian community, have great pleasure in being with us tonight on this memorable occasion. Thus without any further ado, I would like to ask the the Hon. Minister and Mrs. Bedford to step up on the stage for the performance of the official ceremony.

SPEECH DELIVERED BY MR. ARSHAK C. GALSTAUN AT THE OPENING OF THE AUSTRAL- ARMENION ASSOCIATION'S COMMUNITY CENTRE ON 27th MARCH, 1982

Mr. A. C. Galstaun, the Austral-Armenian Association Benefactor

The Hon. Minister, Mr. Bedford, Mrs. Bedford, Your Grace, Bishop Baliozian, Fr. Mirzaian, Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen,

We are honoured, Mr. Bedford, for your and your gracious lady's presence on this happy and historic occasion of the opening of this beautiful Centre, which started as a very hazy dream, but is about to become a very vivid and concrete reality. We trust that you will find time for visits in the future, despite your heavy schedules.

We are lucky to be living in this wonderful and timeless land of caring, plenty and hospitality to people of all races and creeds who are in need of rehabilitation, security and the practice of their ways of life and religion. We are again grateful to the State Government for granting this lovely piece of land on which this Centre is built, to continue and even develop our ethnic culture and heritage, always remembering that we are also members of a new society to which we must gladly give our undivided allegiance and he prepared to make any sacrifices for its protection and prosperity.

None of my frequent and extensive travels in the past 30 years has given me greater pleasure or satisfaction than this one from Singapore, with my wife, Sophie, to take part in this historic occasion. We are grateful to you, Mr. President, and to your com mittee for giving us this privilege and opportunity.

When the Austral-Armenian Association was first formed, none of us thought it would meet with the success we see today. Obviously, as Fr. Mirzaian says, or was it Napoleon who said it, the word "impossible" should be deleted from the dictionary.

Much has been made of the little I have done for the Centre. But let me tell you publicly that whatever I have done for the Association has been done out of love for the Community and in gratitude for the free education, both school and college, that was made possible for me as a result of the magnanimous bequests made to the Armenian Church and College in Calcutta by Armenian benefactors over the past four centuries.

I have been given more than my fair share of the credit for the materialisation of your dreams but I would be selfish and unfair if I did not give the major credit to your Committee and to all of you, as members, because it is you who have put in the months and years of unstinted toil and labour: it is you who have fought against impossible odds, coolly and without thought of self. You would, I am sure, think it unfair if, from my knowledge of what has gone on in the past two years in particular, I did not give specific credit to your popular and untiring President Armen Apcar, and to your guide and mentor, Fr. Mirzaian, and of course to your Committee, for their incredible achievement.

It is common knowledge that your President, Armen, never worked so hard in all his life as after his retirement, in undertaking the supervision of the building of the Centre. He has had innumerable and often unpleasant problems, a lot of them, sadly, created quite unnecessarily. He has, however, overcome all these with a cool and gentlemanly tact and grace that we do not often come across these days. Similarly with Fr. Mirzaian, who has never stopped guiding and advising us, instilling hope and confidence in the future, and in particular, undertaking a lot of the less pleasant and unpopular tasks of soliciting for funds from whomever he could think of, oblivious of the occasional setbacks and wise-cracks. There are no skin-flints for Fr. Mirzaian, the eternal optimist and originator.

We men would be remiss and unchivalrous if we did not again and again acknowledge the unsung but magnificent work of the women's committees throughout the existence of the Association in putting in days of hard toil in marketing, cooking, serving, waiting, cleaning, etc. for hundreds of people at all functions in order to save money and add to the kitty. Ladies, we salute and thank you for your inspiring example and sacrifices.

Now that there is a base to work from, I would appeal to the young of all ages to form sporting, cultural, dramatic, debating, dancing, music, language and such other groups to cater for the needs of your respective ages, never forgetting that the older members are not as square or as insensitive to your aspirations as that they cannot be approached for advice and guidance, born of experience and age. This Centre is for your future: cherish, nurture and use it.

Now that we have this beautiful Centre, it must not be thought that your work is over: it is just beginning. The success of the Association will be the sum-total of the effort, contributions, help co-operation and harmony each of you puts into it. If I may steal or paraphrase from the late President John F. Kennedy, I would suggest that you do not merely ask what your Association can give you or you can get out of it but to ask yourselves what you can give and contribute to its success, prosperity and harmony; within these walls and without. If with nothing you could accomplish what we see today, the sky should be the limit with what you now have.

Sophie and I are honoured for the privilege and pleasure of allowing me to speak.

Since I am the spokesman of the family, I have been asked by Sophie to express her grateful appreciation, in which I join, for the honour of naming this beautiful Hall after her. I may be prejudiced but as you all know Sophie is a wonderful and God-fearing person, with goodwill to all and enmity to none. May, with God's grace, this Hall be a place for such.

In tribute to my wife, in appreciation of the honour you have done her and to practice further what I have preached, I have pleasure in contributing a further $10,000 to your coffers. I hope this will open the floodgates of your own donations as on a previous occasion when you had assembled, I believe, to discontinue the Association.

Finally, my friends, you have achieved the impossible. Please cherish and guide your Association in love and harmony and work for its success, enlargement and solidarity.

Once again, Mr. and Mrs. Bedford, thank you for gracing and encouraging us with your presence.

We hope to see you often in our midst.

The Austral-Armenian Dance Group with their tutor, Mrs. K. Harthunian.

A MESSAGE TO THE ARMENIAN COMMUNITY

It was with a great deal of pleasure that I officially opened the new Armenian Community Centre on March 27th last, and it is with a great deal of pleasure that I can repeat some of the sentiments I expressed on that occasion, in this message to you.

Australia is approaching its 200th anniversary, but we are still young as a Nation. Armenians, with 2,000 years of history behind them, will readily appreciate that fact.

If we are young as a Nation, that does not mean we do not possess a rich and varied cultural heritage. It is a heritage derived from the many cultures that go to make up the whole of Australian society.

As I did in my opening of your community centre, I want to pay tribute here to the role the Armenian community plays in that heritage.

Particularly since the Second World War, Australia has been enriched and strengthened by the arrival of new citizens. The Armenian people have been a small but vital part of that process.

The Hon. Eric L. Bedford delivering his speech.

Armenians in Australia have shown themselves willing to adapt eager to teach those of us already here about their own heritage, and determined to succeed. Evidence of that determination lies in the project to build your community centre.

On behalf of the New South Wales Government, I congratulate you on what you have achieved.

The Government has been extremely pleased to have been able to play a small part in your success. I trust we will also be involved in your continued enterprise and achievement.

Eric Bedford,
N.S.W. Minister for Planning and Environment.
April 7th, 1982.

A MESSAGE TO THE ARMENIAN COMMUNITY

The Hon. John Spender, Q.C., M.P., Federal Member for North Sydney.

The opening of the Armenian Community Centre is a symbol of the success and determination of our Armenian Community, and of the Austral-Armenian Association. Success, with the realisation of the deeply held aspiration to have a Centre for our Armenian Community, and determination over the years to make real that aspiration.

The path to the opening of the Centre has not been an easy one.

Our Armenian Community is not large, and the project was ambitious. At times — as is only natural — the problems faced seemed almost too great to overcome, But great though they were, the problems encountered over the years were overcome. How?

First, by the great generosity of members of the Armenian Community who contributed so freely to the costs of building the Centre.

Second, through the work of all those members of the Association and the Community who gave so freely of themselves, of their time, of their work and of their talents.

Throughout the years of endeavour, Father Mirzaian's work was central. His optimism, I have heard, remained unquenched. "God", he often said, "will provide".

But, listening to the story of how the Centre came to be built, I was reminded of another old truth: "God helps those who help themselves", and this is truly what has happened.

Australia has changed greatly since it emerged from the Second World War. Our society has been transformed and enriched by those who have come here from other lands. Among those who have given so much to Australia are our united and thriving Armenian Community, many of whom came to Australia seeking freedom from discrimination and from persecution. I welcome them all.

I present my warmest and sincerest regards to the Austral- Armenian Association and to our Armenian Community, and especially to all those who have worked so hard to achieve the realisation of a dream. Without dreams, without ideals, without beliefs, without the ties that hold people together, life is barren indeed.

John Spender, Q.C., M.P.,
Federal Member for North Sydney.

MESSAGE FOR THE OPENING OF THE ARMENIAN COMMUNITY CENTRE

The Austral-Armenian Association is to be commended for its far-sighted initiative in establishing their excellent new community centre in Sydney.

Recently I had the pleasure of inspecting the completed building and was impressed by the range and quality of the facilities provided. I am delighted that the Premier, on the recommendation of the Division of Cultural Activities of his department, approved a grant towards the construction of the building.

I have enjoyed the most cordial relationship with members of the Austral-Armenian Association since this project was undertaken. In all my dealings with them I have been impressed by the warmth and hospitality of the group.

The Armenian community form one of the most distinctive and admired ethnic and religious groups in our multi-cultural society, respected by all Australians for their valiant adherence to their cultural traditions, their natural vitality and friendliness, and their outstanding contribution to our progress as a nation.

I believe this centre will play a most important role in the lives of the entire Armenian community in New South Wales and I wish all those associated with it prosperity and happiness in these new surroundings and wherever they may live, or work, or worship.

Evan Williams,
Director,
Division of Cultural Activities.

THE ARMENIAN REST HOME ASSOCIATION

On the afternoon of August 5th, 1979, a tea party was given by the A.R.H.A. at Windsor Gardens. The purpose of this occasion was to introduce to the Armenian community the newly founded Association, and to impart the reasons behind its establishment.

The evening began with a welcoming speech by Mrs. T. Keshishian. This was preceeded by an opulent programme of performers. The following well known artists of the community, by contributing their talents, highlighted the occasion: Miss T. Stephan, piano; Mrs. L. Yakoubian, Z. Smearian and M. Stephan, solo and duet; Mr. A. Sarafian, Mr. K. Bogossian, Mr. A. Vartoogian and Mr. P. Ansoorian, guitar recitation, piano and violin.

Mrs. T. Levonian spoke on behalf of the A.R.H.A.; the following are a few translated extracts from her speech.

". . . The Armenian race, by retaining its ancestral traditions, has been able to continue its existence, intact, to the present, one of the major customs pertaining to the respect of the children for their parents . . . Throughout our history, the Armenian women has played a major part, and even now, wherever the Armenians establish themselves, she continues to perform a vital role.

And now, in Sydney, we, as a small group of Armenian ladies, have originated the idea to found an Armenian rest-home, as have Armenian communities in other parts of the world . . . we are all aware of the uniqueness of our Armenian parents for they are, to their children, the symbols of dedication and self-sacrifice. Loving and grateful children try to repay this devotion by living their lives with their parents, and taking care of them when they reach old age.

However, many aged people, for various reasons, are not so fortunate, and are obliged to spend their remaining days alone or in nursing homes. Not knowing the language, they feel isolated, encountering many difficulties.

Hence, the objective of our association is to provide help for such people. We have been recognised by the Government as a charitable organisation, therefore all donations will be tax-deductible. The A.R.H.A. is NOT a private enterprise, but rather, a neutral association. We wish every Armenian, without exception, to consider this humanitarian organisation as his own, for our sole purpose is to establish an Armenian centre, and assist those people most needing help.

". . . We realise that to undertake and fulfil this cause, we require much hard work and financial assistance. To succeed, we are relying on the entire Armenian community, for earnest and assidious support . . ."

Mrs. T. Levonian ended with the following words: "Let God guide our steps, so that we may succeed in effecting this humanitarian cause."

The tea was then served in a warm, congenial atmosphere, and the guests added to their encouraging words, sincere and generous donations, for the cause had appealed to their hearts.

Mrs. M. Patapanian, president of the association, thanked the religious representatives present, and the remaining guests whose moral and financial assistance made the evening a success. His Grace Bishop Karekin Kazandjian closed the evening with his prayers and blessing. All left, the cause of the occasion impressed upon them.

A SHORT HISTORY OF THE "SEVAN" DANCE GROUP

The "Sevan" Dance Group came into being when the Armenian Church received an invitation through the Good Neighbour Council to perform in a programme as one of the entertainments arranged for the opening of the Sydney Opera House in 1973.

Members of the younger generation were approached to discuss the possibilities of forming a dance group. Choreographer Mr. Kevork Boghossian agreed to and succeeded in forming such a group which was named the Armenian "Sevan" Dance Group.

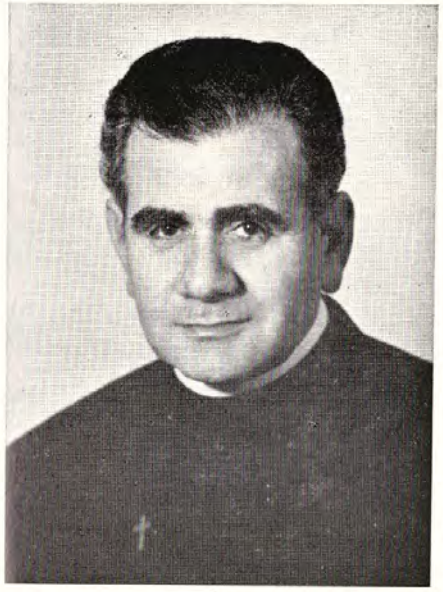

THE "SEVAN" DANCE GROUP

After months of rehearsing, the "Sevan" Dance Group accompanied by four musicians were auditioned in the Opera House and accepted to perform, together with many other ethnic groups, in the 1973 Festival of the Opera House which was inaugurated by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II on 26th October. The successful performance in the Concert Hall of the Opera House induced the dance group to continue with their dancing so as to be able to participate in the annual Shell National Folkloric Festivals. With proper guidance and perserverance the "SEVAN" Dance Group improved so fantastically that their annual performances in the Opera House were almost of near- professional standard. The peak of the dance group's performance came in 1976. The "Sevan" Dance Group's rendition of the "Spring Dance of Armenia" was exquisite, resulting in the group being chosen as one of the seven best dance groups during the past years. The "Sevan" Dance Group was requested for a "repeat" performance of the same dance in the 1977 Folkloric Festival. The performances of the "Sevan" Dance Group brought joy and pride to their compatriots and other ethnic groups by performing at various cultural functions and on television.

With the changing of years, so did the dancers and objectives of the group. Thanks to the guidance of choreographers Jack Markarian and Janik Aladjajian rehearsals carried on. More and more youngsters became interested and joined the group. The remarkable result was that at present there are three divisions in the "Sevan" Dance Group: "Sevan" seniors, "Sevan" teenagers group and "Sevan" juniors. The testimony of the unfailing enthusiasm of the two choreographers and the perseverance of the dancers is complemented by the "Sayat Nova" Choir under choirmaster Vartan Elmassian and by a capable orchestra.

ARMENIAN SETTLERS

REV. AVEDIS PHILIPOSSIAN

Rev. Avedis Philipossian

The Rev. Avedis Philipossian, minister of the Armenian Evangelical Uniting Church emigrated from his birthplace, Beirut to Sydney, arriving here on 2nd October, 1979, with his wife and three children.

His parents had been refugees from the Turkish holocaust eleven years earlier, so when Avedis was born on 9th April, 1926, into the Armenian community in Beirut, his prospects were poor indeed. He attended the Armenian primary school in Beirut but left when only eleven and was apprenticed to a shoemaker, working in that trade until he was forty-one.

Rev. Avedis Philipossian had been called, whilst still a shoemaker, to serve God and save souls in the ministry. He left everything and went to study theology for three years at Emmanuel Bible College in Lebanon. In 1974, aged 48, he was ordained a pastor in the Nazarene Church in Beirut and became the Rev. Avedis Philipossian. Until 1979 he served in Lebanon, first, briefly in the churches at Getron and Betel and finally, for seven years, in the Beirut Nazarene Church when the family migrated to Australia.

Since February, 1980, Rev. Avedis Philipossian has been serving in the Armenian Evangelical Uniting Church, Naremburn, and eighteen months later in August, 1981, the Uniting Church recognised him as one of its pastors. He thanks the Lord for His blessings and kindness that he has experienced in his life.

THE LATE DR. TATOUL CABADIAN

The late Dr. Tatoul Cabadian

The Armenian Community in Sydney has lost one of its prominent members, Dr. T. Cabadian at the age of 68, from heart failure in his residence at Chatswood.

He was born in Turkey, received his primary education in the Armenian School, Istanbul. Due to the unbearable political situation for Armenians in Turkey at the time, his family migrated to Egypt in 1924.

He received his secondary education in the French Lyceum, Alexandria, and passed the second part of Baccalaureate in Beirut.

Following family inclinations, he pursued Medicine in Lausanne, Switzerland and received his Doctorate degree in 1939. prior to World War 2.

Returning to Egypt he volunteered to the British Army in the Middle East, and joined the 8th Army in the Royal Army Medical Corps as an officer. He served in the African front under General B. Montgomery, in Palestine, Syria, Sudan and Egypt. He was discharged in 1947 with three medals for the campaigns he participated in and the medal of merits.

He then established his surgery in Alexandria, Egypt and also served the Armenian Community there as the responsible Medical Officer to the surgery of the Armenian Prelature.

He migrated to Australia in 1964, served for three years in the Wagga District Hospital, and subsequently established his own surgery in Willoughby. He was respected and loved by his patients of all nationalities especially Armenians, who found him an understanding and patient Doctor and whom he served with devotion.

A big number of relatives and friends, representatives from the ANZAC Memorial and Legion Clubs, attended his funeral.

THE LATE HAGOP APAKIAN

The late Hagop Apakian

Mr. Hagop Apakian was born on 1st May, 1907, in Nevshehir approximately sixty kilometres distance from Cesaria in Turkey. He attended the primary school Hripsimiantz for two years but during the genocide of Armenians in Turkey in 1915 he was deported with his family to the unknown deserts of Syria. He passed through Osmanich, Rakka, Meskene, Der-el-zor, Shedadieh and the last stop at Ras-ul-ain. Twenty two members of his family were martyred on the journey and when at Ras-ul-ain, his only remaining sister committed suicide by throwing herself into the river Euphrates. He was adopted by a Bedouin Sheikh

After living around two years among the Bedouins he escaped and walked days and days to reach Aleppo where the city was under the occupation of Turco-German forces. For a while Hagop remained in the German military camp doing domestic services such as cleaning shoes etc., until the city was occupied by the British army. He remained in the same camp then taken over by the British. After a short period with the arrangement of British high-ranking officers, he was sent to Izmir to the Armenian Central School at Chay Street. He attended the Armenian school "Mesrobian" for only two years and the third year, together with twelve other orphans who were successful in their studies, he was sent to an agricultural college.

However that period of freedom was short lived. On 9th September, 1922, Turkish armies of Moustapha Kemal recaptured Izmir and fourteen students from the agricultural college were taken as hostages to Manissa to work in Turkish farms as unpaid labourers. Three of them ran away, travelling at night and hiding during the daytime until they reached the seashore Cheshmeh, where they hid two long days. Subsequently, at the seashore they were noticed by an American battleship which took them to Salonika, Greece. Greece was the country, although economically poor at the time, that received thousands of refugees coming from Constantinople and Asia Minor among them 80,000 to 100,000 Armenians. Hagop as a previous scout, applied to Greek authorites for a job in order to look after his needs. The centre of the Greek Scouting Movement replied to him that he could be appointed Scouts Organiser in Greek schools in Macedonia provided he lerant the Greek language. Apakian was not discouraged. After six months of hard work he learned the Greek language and was appointed as an organiser in Serez, Drama, Kavalla Greek schools to organise and train school children. During those memmorable days he published the "Scouting weekly" in Greek. When Apakian learned that a branch of Constantinople's Robert College would be opened in Athens, he applied for a position in order to work without pay and study in the college at the same time. But his wish did not materialise. After working two years he left for Egypt in 1926 under difficult conditions.

In Egypt he worked as a storekeeper until 1937 and upon the death of his manager he was appointed to his position up to 1941. Communication problems during the war and the difficulties in receiving goods from Australia caused his employer's company's failure and sale. During the period of the war, Apakian worked as a supplier to the British Army in Egypt. After the departure of the British Amy from Egypt he worked as secretary to the Goganian Club in Heliopolis.

Agop married the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kourken Sedefjian, Miss Kohar Sedefjian in 1939 and they were blessed by four sons, Noubar, Nourhan, Zaven and Vahe. Due to unfavourable political conditions the family emigrated in 1963 to Australia and settled in Melbourne.

In Melbourne Apakian worked eight years but his health obliged him to retire from work in 1971. From that year he assisted his son Noubar in the publication of "Agnotz" monthly, which is a publication appreciated by the Armenian community in Australia. He died on 1st January, 1981, and was buried in the Armenian cemetery in Melbourne. Peace to his faithful soul.

MR. AND MRS. HAGOP ARSENIAN

Mr. and Mrs. Hagop Arsenian

Mr. Hagop Arsenian was born in the city of Hadjn, in Cilicia, in 1906. During the local genocide of Armenians by the Turks, his father was killed in nearby Adana leaving his widowed mother with young Hagop and his two sisters to provide for.

During the great genocide in 1915 the Armenian population was deported to Aleppo and thence further inland to Berejik. They took refuge in the caves of this old city doing their best to survive and, to begin with, sleeping among dead bodies. Refugee and penniless Hagop worked as a young shepherd, barefoot and in rags.

After the French took over the Mandate the family returned to their home town, Hadjn, but on 15th October, 1920, Hadjn's Armenian population was again wiped out by the Turks, this time claiming the lives of his mother and sisters. That same year he found refuge in the orphanage established in Adana by the well-known fund established by London's Lord Mayor.

After the evacuation of Cilicia by the Allied forces this orphanage was transferred to Cyprus, then to Constantinople, and subsequently to the Greek Island of Corfu, in 1922/23. In 1924 young Hagop, now 18, was transferred to the orphanage of the Near East Relief Society in Corinth, on the Greek mainland. During 1925/26 this institution closed down, and its inmates were transferred to Egypt.

In Alexandria Hagop Arsenian learned his trade and started his own business in Mansoura, a country town. In 1931 he married a young Armenian woman with a destiny similar to his own, Koharig Ishkhanian, and they established a family. Their four children, Haroutiun-Armen, Hrach, Berj, and Anahid were born and are themselves now all married.

In 1962, Mr. and Mrs. Arsenian went to live in Paris, and at the very end of 1968 migrated to Australia and settled in Sydney. Here Mr. Arsenian has been working as a journalist. For the past eleven years he has been supplying articles to a monthly periodical published in Buenos Aires by an Armenian Compatriotic Society there, called "New Hadjn". He has also been a contributor to the Armenian weekly in Alexandria, "Arax". At present he is a contributor to various Armenian monthlies published in Australia, such as "Agnotz", "Echo", "Arakadz" and "Hooyce".

Mr. Arsenian is a foundation member of the Sydney branch of the "Near East Society", and was its president from 1973 to 1975. At present he is working at summarising his notes and writing his memoirs on his life in the orphanage from 1920 to 1930, a work of some four hundred pages with group photographs. He is also gathering material for a second book, travel notes on the deportation of Armenians from Hadjn until their return, 1906 to 1920. He has much material to work on, articies recording his memoirs and impressions of his homeland.

MR. AND MRS. M. KOTCHARIAN

Mr. and Mrs. M. Kotcharian

Mr Misak Kotcharian was born in Teheran on 12th December, 1911, the youngest son of Babajan and Elizabeth Kotcharian.

He obtained his primary and secondary education in Teheran, attending the American College there. At the age of 16 years, he went to Paris and studied at the Paris University's Electricity School, in 1932 receiving his Engineering Diploma. He then returned to Iran and from 1933 to 1934 he attended the Iranian Officers' Training College, graduating as a lieutenant and receiving a Civil Construction Engineering Diploma.

From 1934 to 1936 he was employed by the Iranian Railroads Department as the Civil Engineer in charge of all construction. From 1936 to 1951 Mr. Kotcharian was engaged by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company as the Civil Engineer in charge of all construction. In 1951, by examination, he was granted membership to the American Society of Civil Engineers. From 1951 to 1966 he was employed by the United States Department for International Development Mission, first as a Civil Engineer and later becoming their Chief Engineer.

In 1966, Mr. Kotcharian left Iran and migrated together with his wife Lyda, nee Petrossian, to Australia. Mr. and Mrs. Kotcharian settled in Hobart, Tasmania, where they joined their daughter, son-in-law, and grandchildren.

In Hobart, Mr. Kotcharian was employed by the Hobart City Council as Engineer in Charge of Roads, where he remained until his retirement in December 1976.

He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, a member of the Association of French Engineers, a member of the Association of Australian Professional Engineers, and a fellow of the Royal Australian Institute of Engineers and Chartered Engineers, Australia.

The couple continue to reside in Hobart, where they are close to their three children and six grandchildren. Their daughter, Mariette, was educated in Teheran and in England, where she qualified as a registered nurse and is currently working at the Royal Hobart Hospital. She was recently widowed by the untimely death of her husband, Dr. Lance Buckingham, and has two children.

Their eldest son, Zareh, was educated in Iran, in England, and in the United States. He obtained his B.Sc. from Weber State College, his B.A. from Idaho State University, and completed his post graduate studies in Social Work at the Tasmanian College of Advanced Education. He is currently employed as Head Child Welfare Officer with the Tasmanian Social Welfare Department. His wife, Helen, owns and operates a ladies' hairdressing salon in Hobart. They have two children.

Their youngest son, Vahram, was likewise educated in Iran, in England, and in the United States and finally at the University of Tasmania, majoring in Accountancy. He currently owns and operates his own news-agency in Hobart and he is Agent of the Australian Mutual Provident Society. His wife, Margaret, is a nursing sister and works at the Royal Hobart Hospital. They also have two children.

MR. GEORGE THOMASSIAN

Mr George Thomassian is the great great grandson, on his mother's side of the family, of the late Joseph Emin (1726-1809) the outstanding Armenian patriot who did such eminent outstanding service for his people. Like his great ancestor and his own parents, Harouthune and Satenik Thomassian (who were married in 1929), he was born in Hamadan, Iran. He was born in the year 1933, the eldest of their four sons. Except for George, the other, Seroge, Vartkes and Albert, are now all married.

Most of the Armenian families living in Hamadan have been prosperous carpet dealers for generations and George's parents were no exception. After receiving his elementary education in Hamadan, his parents sent him to Teheran for secondary studies. Subsequently, he put himself through a technical training course from which he qualified as an electrical technician. But since his parents were well established as carpet dealers, George too, eventually joined the family company, and was sent to West Germany to open branches there which he did very successfully. He is at present one of the foremost dealer in Persian carpets in the whole of Europe and is progressing from strength to strength. In Germany, George Thomassian has been a blessing to the small Armenian community there, where in recent years he has helped many struggling Armenian students residing in that country for their studies. Twice he has visited Armenia. Meanwhile his parents, now retired, and two of his brothers, have settled in Sydney and recently they have opened a carpet business here too.

Mr. George Thomassian

We are sure the Thomassian family will serve and bear out the worthy tradition that the great Armenian merchants have not only been shrewd businessmen but have also proved themselves to be great lovers of literature and culture and patriotic tradition, supporting of the communal institutions of their community.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE JANOYAN

Mr. George Janoyan was born in the Holy Land in Jerusalem, on 25th August, 1934, as the son of Arsen Janoyan and his wife Nevart. He was educated in the Armenian Convent of St. James, Jerusalem, in the Serpost Tarkmantchatz Varjaran ("Holy Translators' School"), for the last four years of his schooling there, also serving the Church as a Jarankavor ("seminarian chorister") from 1947 to 1950.

On leaving the school he joined the Jordanian Army as a staff photographer on 10th April, 1950, and by 19th February, 1963, when he left the Army, he had risen to the rank of sergeant. During the years he was stationed in the capital of the kingdom of Jordan, he never missed going to Holy Mass in the Armenian Church even one single Sunday, going A.W.L. if forced to do so. He was a server at the altar and knew himself to be indispensable. The good habit has been attributed to early training by his admirable parents, Arsen and Nevart Janoyan.

Here three years later he met and within months, married Miss Maggie Babahekian, who had only recently arrived in Sydney with her sister Chake. They now have three children, Vicken aged twelve, Arsen eight and Armine six. Miss Maggie Babahekian was born in Beirut, Lebanon, in 1948 as the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Babahekian. There, she attended the local Nubarian Varjaren Primary School and subsequently the Licee Sahagian. After graduating from this latter institution, she worked for a further two years as a member of its staff. Then, in 1966, she and her sister Chake migrated together to Sydney where within the first year of her arrival she met her future husband, the young deacon and photographer from Jerusalem, and they were married on 18th December.

Ever since her coming to Sydney and the opening of the new Manookian Saturday School next to the church hall in Macquarie Street, Chatswood, Mrs. Janoyan has been doing invaluable work teaching Armenian children the rudiments of their mother tongue, such an essential in helping them to come into their distinctive heritage.

Mr. George Janoyan who is a deacon has served the Church faithfully and conscientiously.

Mr. and Mrs. George Janoyan

MR. AND MRS. NOUBAR YANGOYAN

Mr. Noubar Yangoyan was born in 1936 in Istanbul, Turkey. He graduated from the Yessayan High School, and from early childhood he served their local church, "The Holy Church of Resurrection", where for his faithful service he had, as a fifteen-year-old, bestowed on him the ourar as accolite, and later in the year 1974 he was ordained as deacon.

In the Middle East and especially in Turkey, the children along with their schooling, simultaneously are taught a trade or a profession. So it was not an unusual thing that after school every day for five years young Noubar did an apprenticeship as an auto-electrician and spray painter.

In 1959, he married Miss Marie Semerdjian, and they were blessed with a son, who is named Minas.

Both Noubar and Marie come from church loving families and wherever they have been, they have served their church faithfully and conscientiously. It is a sad fact that there are still restrictions with regard to the various national communities in present day Istanbul, yet the Armenian community there, headed by the famous Armenian Patriarchate, is permitted to run thirty-six churches and twenty infant and primary schools, high schools and colleges.

While in Istanbul, Mr. N. Yangoyan was very helpful on various church committees and especially on that of the Armenian Patriarchate and also as a committee member on the board of the Armenian orphanage.

In 1974, Mr. and Mrs. Yangoyan and their son migrated to Australia and have been fortunate to find a home in the suburb of Lane Cove, in the vicinity of the Chatswood Church. On no single Sunday have they missed attending the church service. Both parents take part in the choir, where Mrs. Yangoyan with her beautiful voice sings in praise of the Lord and is heard Sunday by Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Noubar Yangoyan

Mr. Yangoyan is a member of the church council and takes part in all the functions as a patriotic person. He runs his own business.

May God's blessing be upon the family and much prosperity.

MR. AND MRS. BAGHDASSAR KALANDERIAN & FAMILY

In 1939, Baghdassar Kalanderian, the youngest son of his family, migrated from Alexandrette, Turkey, to live in Beirut, Lebanon.

He attended the Secondary Kenaz School in Beirut, which was the private school of the Armenian Spiritual Brotherhood Church. When he was twelve years old he lost his father, therefore, he could not continue his primary education into secondary studies. He established his later large business in the city of Beirut by selling goods which he had inherited from his father.

In 1955, he married Miss Lydia Magrditchian. Lydia had attended the same school as he had. After their marriage, they worked voluntarily within the Secondary Kenaz School and the church that patronised the school. They had two sons and a daughter. Daniel, Ruth and Samuel.

Due to the civil war in Lebanon in 1975, their business was totally uprooted and destroyed, so that in 1977, their family migrated to Sydney.

Lydia is a housewife who has volunteered to take the responsibility for four Armenian scripture classes, two in Willoughby Girls' High School and the other two in Willoughby Primary School. She has also extended her voluntary services to her community in bringing her contribution of God's Word to the Ladies' Meetings, led by Mrs. Unza Bayramian.

Their daughter, Ruth, is a first year student at Macquarie University studying Biology and Psychology. She also takes one scripture class in Willough Girls' High School and also volunteers her time and talent to play the piano for the student choir of the Tarkmantchatz Armenian School every Saturday afternoon.

Daniel, their eldest son, is a young man with christian education and high ideals and the youngest son, Samuel, is a second year student in Crows Nest High School, an intelligent young boy with a beautiful voice who also plays both the piano and the violin.

They are an asset to the Armenian community in Sydney and render both God and Coesar their due.

Mr. and Mrs. Baghdassar Kalanderlian and Family

MR. AND MRS. NESSIM YACOUBIAN

Mr. and Mrs. Nessim Yacoubian

Mr. Nessim Yacoubian comes from Cairo where after leaving school with an H.S.C. he took up work for the Marconi Eastern Cable and Wireless Company there, as an overseas telecommunications officer until March 1963. In April of that year, Mr. and Mrs. Yacoubian migrated to Sydney where Nessim joined the Overseas Telecommunications Commission (Australia) in May, again as an overseas officer. Both Mr. and Mrs. Yacoubian are music lovers. Mr. Yacoubian often delights his community with his gifted guitar-playing.

Louise Yacoubian comes to us from Alexandria where after she had reached intermediate level schooling, she decided to take up a singing career. For five years, she studied with Madame Vanda Belladonna. She gave her first recital in 1952, and many other performances later on behalf of Armenian and Italian charities in Alexandria, also appearing as soloist in concerts with Mr. Alexanian (Yerchahomp). Not only in Alexandria, but also since coming to Australia, both in Melbourne and in Sydney, she has sung the leading role of Sonia in the Armenian operetta "Oushlini Noushlini" (Late but worthwhile).

When Mr. Batmakerian visited Egypt, she sang at several Armenian charity concerts at the Continental Hotel in Cairo, as well as the Hotel Cecil in Alexandria.

Here in Sydney, Madame Yacoubian is currently singing with the North Shore Opera Centre, playing leading roles in English in both Bizet's "Carmen", and Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana".

In her singing career, Madame Yacoubian has ever received great encouragement from her husband.

MR. AND MRS. VAZRICK HOVANESSIAN

Born to Vazgen and Vartoohi Hovanessian on 15th November, 1954 in Masjid-Soleyman-fran he attended primary school in Tehran and in October, 1965 at the age of eleven, was admitted to the Armenian College in Calcutta where he proved to be one of its most outstanding students being awarded the Poladian Medal for the Highest Average in the school for three consecutive years, the Mihigian Medal for the Higest Average in Armenian subjects for four consecutive years, the Adams Brothers Cup for the Highest Average in Science subjects for two years.

He was appointed the troopleader of the scouts and won the G. D. Hope Medal for best scout of the year and in his final year was awarded the highest honour in the school "The Good Conduct Medal" which he cherishes with other fond memories of his school days.

He immigrated to Sydney, Australia, in February, 1972 with his family and attended Narrabeen Boys High School where he attained the H.S.C. in 1973.

Early in 1974 he won a Rotary Youth Club Leadership Award and was the first "New Australian" to be sponsored by the Dee Why Rotary Club to attend a seminar on Community and Youth Leadership. Ever since then whenever time has permitted, he has shown active participation in many aspects of politics, youth and community affairs, both amongst Armenian and Australian groups.

He joined a firm of Insurance Brokers after leaving school in 1974 and through the training received there, he realised his own ambitions by achieving independence and establishing his own business. He was admitted to Kuringai College of Advenced Education in 1975 to pursue graduate studies in finance and accounting and left the insurance scene to join Storey Blackwood & Co. — Chartered Accountants, to help further his career.

Mr. and Mrs. Vazrick Hovanessian

In 1976 he visited London and on August 7th, married his childhood classmate, Paula MacJohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. MacJohn of London (formerly Calcutta).

Together they returned to Sydney and Vazrick joined the Chartered Accountancy firm of P. N. Burke & Co. where he spent 5 years while studying part-time at Kuringai College.

In 1981 he and his wife toured Europe and the U.S.A. for 3 months and visited their old school in Calcutta. While holidaying, he had the opportunity to reassess his future and so decided to make a break and realise part of his ambitions and upon returning to Sydney resigned from his senior position attained at P. N. Burke & Co. and set up a Public Accounting and Management and Financial Consultancy business in North Sydney.

He has amongst his clients a growing number of Armenians and has helped many achieve financial security and independence.

On September 6th, 1982, he and his wife became proud parents for the first time with the birth of their daughter 'Natasha'.

MR. AND MRS. ARMEN MIRZAIAN
ARMENIAN WEDDING OF THE YEAR

Mr. and Mrs. Armen Mirzaian

Six hundred guests gathered at Chatswood Town Hall on the evening of Saturday, 2nd September, 1978, to celebrate Sydney's Armenian wedding of the year, that of Armen Mirzaian and Lida Galoustian.

When earlier in the afternoon the marriage ceremony had been solemnised at the Armenian Apostolic Church, in Chatswood, there was not even standing room in the recently extended church building.

Both the size and multi-ethnic composition of the guest-list witnessed to the popularity of the newly-weds. Another relevant factor was the identity of the bridegroom's parents. They are the widely-known Very Rev. Archpriest A. Mirzaian, M.B.E., C.I.I.O., J.P. who performed the marriage of his own elder son, Armen, and Mrs. Knarik Mirzaian.

The octogenarian grand-parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Vartan Michaelian, flew specially from Iran for the occasion.

The cosmopolitan gathering at the Chatswood Town Hall was treated to a lavish buffet dinner, with Armenian dishes specially prepared by the relatives of the bridal couple. Besides this, six lambs were roasted on the spit for the wedding banquet by the Armenian catering firm of Eddie Toutunjian who also made the seven-tiered wedding cake.

The Sundown Armenian Music Group entertained the numerous guests, many of whom forgetting their own ethnic background joined in humbustions Armenian folk-dancing. Russians and Greeks, Lebanese and Jerusalemites, Welshmen and original Aussies, mingled on the floor in an international friendly medley with the bridal party, in modern but also traditional dancing. One was suddenly transported to the shores of the Caspian and Black Seas and to the slopes of the Caucasus Mountains and the peaks of Ararat.

The bridegroom, who had just turned 29, was born in Calcutta. He came to Australia in 1958 with his parents and his sister, his younger brother being born here. As an old boy of Crows Nest High School, where he obtained his H.S.C., he worked for a few years for the C.B.C. Bank and then the A.M.P. Society before joining TV Channel 9, having become assistant accountant.

His keen interest in sport is reflected in his having played for several years now in the Armenian Rugby Team here.

The bride was born in New Julfa, Iran, in 1956 and came to Australia, five years ago, with her parents, Mr. Guregh Galoustian and Mrs. Katherine Galoustian (nee Michaelian). Her bridesmaids were, Flora and Juliette Galoustian and Odette Danelian.

The best man was Verege Shamavonian; Saco Mirzaian and Carlyle Michaelian were groomsmen while Fred Galoustian was the pageboy.

Among the numerous guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. Anthony, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McDermott, Inspector P. and Mrs. McRobie, Professor A. Louvaris, Dr. J. Steele and Mr. and Mrs. I. Spies, and several members of the staff of TV Channel 9.

The bridal couple spent their honeymoon in Fiji and upon their return took up residence at East Roseville.

The wedding ceremony of Mr. and Mrs. Armen Mirzaian, together with bridesmaids and groomsmen.

MR. AND MRS. ARTUN NARINIAN

Mr. and Mrs. Artun Narinian

Mr. and Mrs. Artun Narinian were both born in Istanbul, he on the 19th October, 1951, and she, as Nadia Kazarian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sahag Kazarian, on the 24th December, 1954.

Artun Narinian attended the Bezezian Primary School and subsequently the Getronagan High School, and then went on to study civil engineering for five years at Istanbul's State Academy of Engineering and Architecture, graduating as Bachelor of Engineering in 1975. He was commissioned as an officer during his term of national military service. After completing his duty, he met Miss Nadia Kazarian, who had at that time returned to her native Istanbul on a holiday from Australia, and they became engaged.

Mr. Artun Narinian migrated to Australia arriving in Sydney on the 11th November, 1978, and in less than six weeks they were married in the Armenian Church of Holy Resurrection, Chatswood, on 23rd December. Artun Narinian is now working as a civil engineer in a well known Sydney firm.

Nadia, prior to revisiting her birthplace in 1978, had spent the previous five years in Sydney after migrating there with her parents in November, 1973. As a child in Istanbul, Nadia had attended the Armenian Primary School, and later the French High School there. So now, she could speak Armenian, Turkish, French and English. In 1977, she did a short interpreter's course in medical terminology, in Anatomy and Physiology, in order to quality with the Department of Immigration and Ethnic Affairs as an interpreter for the Health Commission of N.S.W. She has been employed on the staff of the new interpreter service since its inception in October, 1977. Nadia moreover has a beautiful voice and has sung in various famous Armenian choirs, some of whose recordings have had worldwide distribution.

The words of her favourite song are:

"If all the seas were one sea, what a big sea it would be

"If all the trees were one tree, what a big tree it would be!

"And if this big tree were to fall into that big sea, what a big splash there would be!

"And if all Armenians could join one great harmony, what a big concert it would be!

"And if all our national gifts were combined,
what a mighty nation we should be!

"So be it, Lord".

MR. AND MRS. GARNIK SAYADIAN

Mr. and Mrs. Garnik Sayadian

Mr. Garnik Sayadian was born in Teheran, Iran, in August, 1948. He is the only son out of the four children of the late Mr. Jan Saadian and his wife Marous.

After completing the primary school curriculum in the Armenian Arax Primary School, in which he was regularly top student of his class, he attended Alborz High School for the first three years of secondary studies and Kooshesh Armenian Boys' High School during the fourth year. All these were in Teheran.

In February, 1966, the Sayadian family migrated to Australia and he continued his secondary studies in Merrylands High School and later in Chatswood High School. Not withstanding his handicap with regards to his new adopted language, he completed the Higher School curriculum successfully in 1968 and was accepted to undertake the Civil Engineering Diploma course at The New South Wales Institute of Technology. He completed the course and received its Diploma in 1974 and with further studies he obtained the Degree of Bachelor of Engineering in civil/structural engineering in 1977.

During his undergraduate studies, Mr. Sayadian worked for various companies including Ready Mixed Concrete Industries, Sinclair Knight and Partners, Atlas Copco Australia, and at present is employed by the Water Resources Commission, in their Design Branch, as design engineer.

In 1975, Mr. Sayadian met Miss Anna Benlian whose family had migrated to Australia from Istanbul, Turkey. They were married at the Armenian Apostolic Church in Chatswood in September, 1976, and their marriage was blessed with a daughter, Jasmen, in May, 1979.

Mr. Sayadian takes a keen interest in both Australian and Armenian current affairs and is a member of a number of organisations. He has also currently taken up the course leading to Master of Engineering Science (Structures) on a part-time basis at the University of New South Wales, and hopes to complete it by 1980.

MR. AND MRS. RAFFI KHOROZIAN

Mr. and Mrs. Raffi Khorozian

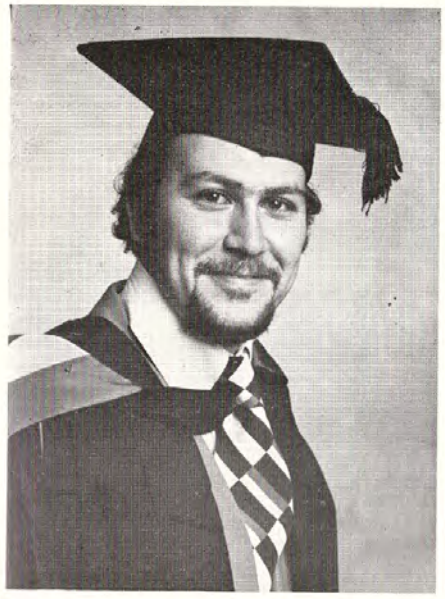

Raffi Khorozian is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ashot Khorozian from Jerusalem, where he was born. Later, the family settled in Amman, Jordan, where Raffi was educated at the Armenian Primary School in the capital. Subsequently he attended the De La Salle College until he attained the age of sixteen years. On leaving the college, he took up hairdressing. After completing his apprenticeship in Jordan, he left for England to gain more experience. It was not long before his talents were recognised in London and he was given the opportunity of working for one of the very foremost coiffeurs in the world, viz, Vidal Sassoun. After a few months with him, he returned back home to Amman, where he set up as the youngest Armenian hairdresser to own his own business.

Owing to the unsettled political situation in Amman, the Khorozian family, like so many others, decided to migrate to Australia, where they arrived in August, 1971. For one year, Raffi worked in Sydney in various establishments until he had been able to accumulate sufficient funds to open his own establishment, which met with immediate success.

It was at Christmas 1977 that Raffi met Robyn, the eldest of the three pretty daughters of the Hon. Eric Bedford, the N.S.W. Minister for Education and Mrs. Bedford of Sydney. Robyn was born in the Central West of New South Wales, in West Wyalong, where her father was a school teacher. When she was seven, the family moved to the Sydney suburb of Fairfield, and later she attended the Westfield High School. After gaining her School Certificate, she worked as a travel consultant, a job which enabled her twice to visit Europe. On Saturday, 2nd June, 1979, Robyn and Raffi were joined in Holy Mattrimony in the Armenian Apostolic Church of Holy Resurrection by the Rev. Father A. Mirzaian, and afterwards the members of the two wedding groups mingled festively in the Silver Room of Grace Brothers' store in Chatswood. Mr. Hagop Menzagopian acted ably as the bridegroom's best man and Raffi's two sisters made sweet bridesmaids.

Raffi is very well known in the Chatswood area and we are sure, due to his pleasant manner and hard work, he will always be an example to the young Armenian generation.

MR. AND MRS. VAHE ARTINIAN

Mr. and Mrs. Vahe Artinian

Both Vahe and Nora Artinian were born in Cairo, he as the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Artin Artinian on 19th July, 1951, she as the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noubar Soghomonian on 5th November, 1956. Both attended the Kaloustian Azkayin Varjaran in Cairo, Nora until she was nine when her family migrated to Australia, but Vahe, after obtaining his School Certificate continued on in Cairo to obtain his Higher School Certificate from St. George's College, then entering the Faculty of Pharmacy at Cairo University to qualify for the degree of Pharmaceutical Chemist which he duly achieved.

In 1975, Vahe Arutian migrated to Australia where he started a new life. He attended Sydney University and obtained his Bachelor of Pharmacy degree in 1977, the same year that he married Miss Nora Soghomonian. He now is a pharmacist at Anderson's Pharmacy, 69 Penshurst Street, Willoughby, where he is able to perform very useful work for the Armenian community in the course of his duties.

Nora Soghomonian was only nine when she reached Australia. She was promptly enrolled in the Cammeray Public School and at the same time also in the two Armenian schools, the A.G.B.U. and the H.M.M. and finished off this section of her education satisfactorily. In 1969, Nora was selected to become a pupil of Willoughby Girls' High School, where she continued her education in the six years that followed, successfully obtaining her School Certificate and Higher School Certificate and matriculating to Sydney University in 1975 to study for a Bachelor of Science degree which she achieved in 1978, the year in which Vahe Artinian and Nora were married. Both have now joined the recently formed Armenian University Graduates' Association.

MR. AND MRS. HAGOP KAHRAMANIAN

Mr. and Mrs. Hagop Kahramanian

On Saturday, 29th December, 1979, at 12 noon, the marriage of Hagop Kahramanian and Miss Sosee Avakian was officiated by Rev. A. Mirzaian, at the Armenian Apostolic Church, Chatswood. Parents, relatives and some 250 guests attended the ceremony. The Best Man was the elder brother of the bridegroom, Raffi.

Following the church service, the guests were invited to a reception at the Civic Centre, Chatswood. After drinks and lunch, Mr. Stepan Kerkyasharian, the Master of Ceremonies, proposed a toast to the bride and bridegroom for their happiness. Mr. Raffi Kahramanian, on behalf of his family, thanked the guests for their attendance and the father of the bride, Mr. Haig Avakian, spoke expressing his feelings on this happy occasion. The guests were then entertained, and danced to the tune of a band.

Hagop, the bridegroom, is a self-made, enterprising young man. He was born in Beirut and received his primary education in Mesrobian National School and attended high school at Ashrafieh, Lebanon. Hagop's father died before his birth and his mother, Mrs. M. Kahramanian, had to raise, all alone, her three children, of which Hagop is the youngest. He is a photographer by profession but emigrating from Beirut to Sydney in 1969, he worked hard and after two years, his mother and sister's family came from Teheran to join him. Subsequently, his elder brother came from Kuwait, and the brothers established a chain of Italian style restaurants, which they manage successfully.

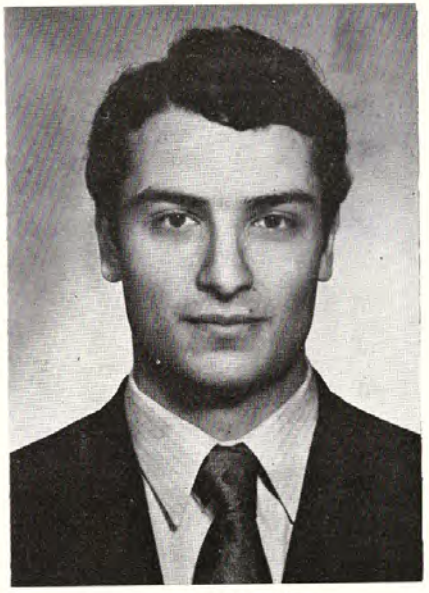

Sosee Avakian, the bride, is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Haig Avakian. The family came to Sydney in 1963 from Cairo, Egypt, when Sosee was a child who had attained the fourth form of the Armenian National Kalousdian School in Cairo. Sosee completed her primary education in Cammeray Public School and continued her studies in Willoughby Girls' High School, obtaining her School Certificate in 1968 and Higher School Certificate in 1970.

Being determined to gain further knowledge and showing an inclinatiion to economics, Sosee attended the University of New South Wales, following a six year part time course in the faculty of commerce. In 1976 she was awarded, by the Council of the University, the degree of Bachelor of Commerce in Economics, with merit.

In February, 1971, she joined the Public Service in the Australian Taxation Office where she has advanced to her present position of Supervisor in the Assessing Section.

Sosee is well known in the Armenian community circles. She attended Armenian scripture classes conducted by Rev. Father Mirzaian in Willoughby Girls' High School, she graduated from the school conducted by the Armenian Cultural Society on Saturday afternoons in Armenian language and history was a member of the Youth Group, a leader of young girls 'Nayiri" group of the Armenian Relief Society and a Council Member and Secretary of Armenian Students Association.

DR. ARAM MINASIAN

Mr. Aram Minasian

Dr. Aram Robert Minasian was born in Bucharest, Romania in 1953, and came to Melbourne with his parents, Hagop and Elizabeth, and sister Laurette, in 1961. After receiving his primary education, he was awarded a Music Entrance scholarship to Melbourne Grammar School in 1967 and completed his Higher School Certificate with "A" grades in all subjects, together with a Special Distinction for 'General Excellence' in 1970. In parallel with the academic studies he was active in the field of music (violin) and toured Japan and the Philippines with the Australian Youth Orchestra in 1970.

His tertiary education was received at the University of Melbourne where he studied Electrical Engineering. Having been encouraged by several scholarships during this course, including the Gulbenkian Foundation Scholarship, he completed the degree in Electrical Engineering with honours in all subjects. In that year, 1974, he narrowly missed being selected for a Rhodes Scholarship for doctorate studies at Oxford University, and was also the Victorian Representative for the Shell Postgraduate Science and Engineering Scholarship. However, in 1975, the award of a United Kingdom Commonwealth Scholarship Award enabled him to take up postgraduate studies at University College, London University. In 1976, he obtained his M.Sc. (Master of Science) degree with distinction in Microwaves and Modern Optics, as well as the Diploma in Microwave Engineering from University College. Subsequently, he returned to the University of Melbourne where he conducted research in the microwave field and was awarded the PhD. (doctorate) degree in 1980. His work in electronic research has led to several papers on high frequency amplifiers and devices for telecommunications which have appeared in journals published by the Institution of Electronic Engineers in England, U.S.A. and Australia.

On the musical side, he obtained the Associate Diploma in Music in 1972 and participated in several orchestras including the Amati Chamber Orchestra and Melbourne University Symphony Orchestra before touring Asia for a second time with the Australian Youth Orchestra in 1975. He studied with several eminent violin teachers, amongst them Manoug Parikian in London. In recent years he has appeared with the Melbourne musicians Chamber Orchestra, and has been Leader of the Martin Chamber Orchestra, and also enjoys playing in string quartets. As well as the standard classical violin repertoire, symphonic and chamber works, he is enthusiastic about works by Armenian composers and plays pieces by Khachaturian, Komitas, Hovanessian, Babajanian and Mirzoyan.

He now holds the position of Lecturer in Electrical Engineering at the University of Melbourne and is keen to continue his activities in the scientific and music fields.

In 1981 Aram Minassian married his compatriot and co-religionist Shery Shamir of Sydney.

MISS SHERY SHAMIR

Miss Shery Shamir

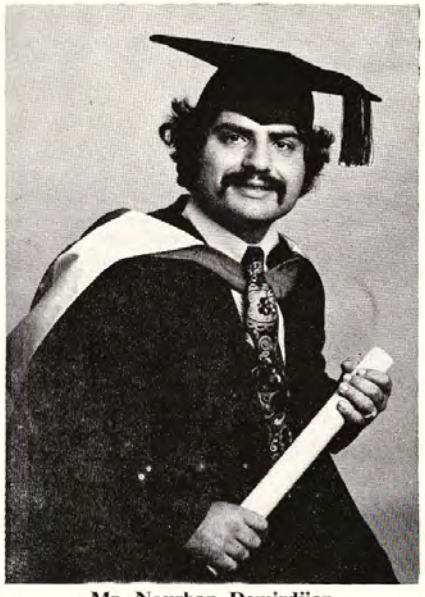

Miss Shery Shamir was born in Isfahan, Iran in 1957. She migrated to Sydney with her parents, Hrach and Manoosh, and her two sisters in 1970.

She attended the Forest High School where she obtained her Higher School Certificate in 1975 and gained entry to the Sydney University. In 1979 she obtained her Bachelor of Science degree with two majors, Biochemistry and Pharmacology. Currently, she is engaged in research at the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital in the field of Biochemistry, looking at the mechanism of absorption of vitamin B12.

She is also studying for her Master of Science degree at the University of N.S.W. For several years she was involved with the Armenian Students Association in Sydney and in 1980 she became one of the committee members. She has also served on the Editorial board of the "Shiraz" journal published by the Armenian Students Association.

In 1981 Miss Shery Shamir married Dr. Aram Minassian of Melbourne.

MR. NOURHAN DEMIRDJIAN

Mr. Nourhan Demirdjian

Mr. Nourhan Demirdjian was born in Cairo, Egypt, on 11th September, 1950, and received both his primary and secondary education at the Kaloustian Armenian School, graduating from the school in 1965.

In 1966 and 1967 he attended St. George College, but had to interrupt his studies in 1967 to emigrate to Australia with his mother, to join his brother and sister, who were already there.

In 1968, Nourhan continued his education in Australia as a part-time student and received his Higher School Certificate in 1969. In 1970, after gaining admission to the University of N.S.W., he started to do a part-time course in Pure and Applied Chemistry, which he finished in 1977 and received his B.Sc.

Mr. Demirdjian at present works at Vessey Chemicals as the chemist in charge of Quality Control and Production. It is the same firm in which he started to work as a laboratory attendent in 1967.

Since early childhood, Mr. Demirdjian showed a love and great interest for his people's culture, particularly literature. By the age of sixteen he already won first prize in three essay competitions, including the one organised by Soviet Armenia, the prize of which was a visit to Soviet Armenia. Unfortunately, Nourhan could not go to Soviet Armenia because he was just then about to emigrate to Australia.

Nourhan is a member of the Armenian Cultural Society and is now teaching Armenian language and history in the Armenian Saturday School at Willoughby, and he has recently finished an in-service course in teaching techniques there.

Lately, he has been involved in producing plays for the Armenian Cultural Society, where he is the current prompter in most of their plays. His hobbies also include music, teaching, tennis and table tennis.

On Saturday, 18th September, 1982, Nourhan Demirdjian married Ani Chelmekian and they carry with them all the good wishes of their community.

MISS ODETTE MARTHA ROELANDT

Miss Odette Martha Roelandt

Miss Odette Martha Roelandt was born on 26th September, 1956, in Sydney. Her father, Eduardus Roelandt and her mother (nee Victoria Jordan), moved back to Netherlands in 1958 from Australia and returned again to Australia to join her mother's family in Sydney in 1978.

She has just completed four years at the University of New South Wales, resulting in a Bachelor of Science Degree, specialising in Biochemistry. Currently, she is studying towards the Diploma in Nutrition and Dietetics at the University of Sydney.

She joined the Austral-Armenian Association upon arrival in Sydney and was elected to the management committee as a member in 1980, and then as minutes secretary. She also had a part in the setting up of the younger set and was elected to the editorial committee of "Tzain", the voice of the Austral-Armenian Association. She has been an active member of the Armenian Students Association of Australia for the past two years, i.e., since 1980.

Miss Flora Galoustian

MISS FLORA GALOUSTIAN

Miss Flora Galoustian was born in Iran and lived there in New-Julfa until she migrated to Australia in 1973, after completing her Higher School certificate examinations in her home city.

In Australia she studies dentistry at the University of Sydney, and has recently completed the course. Her particular interests are pedodontics and oral surgery. She is the eldest daughter of Gouriekh and Katherina Galoustian, and has two sisters, Lida and Juliet, and a younger brother, Fred. The whole family has been instrumental in seeing her through the difficult times of her university years.

May this serve as an example of what young people migrating here after finishing their secondary schooling overseas may achieve. We wish her every further success in her chosen career.

MASTERS EDWARD AND REUBEN DEMIRDJIAN

Family gathering at the christening ceremony of Master Reuben Demirdjian

The first child of Mr. and Mrs. Haig Demirdjian of Middle Cove was born on the 25th January, 1978, and was christened Edward in the Armenian Apostolic Church, Chatswood, on Sunday, 23rd September, 1978.

The second child, Reuben Demirdjian, was born on the 27th September, 1979, and baptised a year later on the 27th September, 1980. On both occasions, the ceremony was performed by the children's grandfather, the Archpriest Aramais Mirzaian.

The godparents at both these baptisms were their close relatives, their paternal aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Hrach Vartoukian of Forestville.

Each of these baptisms was followed by a reception at the Roseville Chase Community Centre, attended by numerous well wishers. The elder of the two boys, Edward, has just started attending infant school and moreover is also attending the Armenian Saturday school which has now been in existence for fifteen years. He is the envy of his younger brother, who will doubtless soon be following in his footsteps.

Congratulations on this happy occasion to Edward and Reuben's grandparents, Mrs. Sonia Demirdjian and Rev. Father and Mrs. A. Mirzaian.

Edward and Reuben Demirdjian

The proud grandparents, Father Aramais and Kenarik Mirzaian

GUIDE TO ARMENIANS IN AUSTRALIA

Since I first published such a "Guide to the Armenian Congregation in Australia" in 1976 many new families have joined use, but the problems remain the same and the edition is exhausted and also needs to be brought up to date.

I hope that this new comprehensive address book of Armenians in Australia will be as helpful as those earlier two versions in 1970 and 1976 were.

If there are errors I would ask your indulgence as changes are taking place all the time. Ideally from now on Armenian organisations should undertake as best possible to keep an up to date register so that their combined efforts may obviate the need for any such further publications.

ARMENIAN CEMETERIES IN SYDNEY

The closing chapter of this address book will serve to keep alive the memory of our dear departed who have died since coming to Australia and are buried in the consecrated ground of Armenian cemeteries here. Since grave monuments are now a thing of the past and lawn cemeteries have taken their place which permit only of bronze plaques commemorating the departed's name and the date of death and burial, it is most desirable that such inscriptions should in all cases be suitably recorded, also in the case of those at present stll lacking such permanent identification.

A community, it is said, is marked by the respect shown by the living for their dear departed ones. It is traditionally customery for Armenians to make a pilgrimage to their cemeteries at least twice a year after one of their four major festivals to hold requiem services for dear ones in that peaceful atmosphere and give thanks for their lives.

IN SWEET MEMORY OE ALEX BEDRIAN AND RAFE KUPELIAN

Master Alex Bedrian

Master Rafe Kupelian

In 1981 and 1982, two young Armenian-Australians tragically lost their lives. A five-year-old Alex Bedrian succumbing on 21st September, 1981 by violence on the part of a young unbalanced youth. The other child, Rafe Kupelian, aged three, was drowned on the 24th January, 1982 in a swimming pool in a Sydney suburb. Both boys were friends living in the same suburb and now resting in the same row in the Armenian Lawn Cemetery in Lane Cove.

May their sweet young souls rest in eternal peace and may God grant comfort to the bereaved parents.

Meaningful Funerals mean much more than mere disposal.

Modern understanding about grieving over loss and death shows that most of us need the psychological, healing and therapeutic benefits of a fully professional and supportive funeral service when someone near to us dies.

Our Group has become an industry pace-setter in promoting greater community appreciation of the grief process, and this is reflected in the superior quality of funeral service we provide.

Our highly experienced personnel will discuss any aspect of funeral arrangements and charges at any time before or after death occurs.

Some of our staff have been in service for more than 20 years, and while we encourage members of the family to take part in all aspect of the funeral, experience shows that attention to the many details is best left to trained members of the funeral director's staff.

We provide a 24-hour service, 7 days a week.

For information and no-obligation consultation on funeral matters please contact any of our offices.
